WAR STRIKE OPENS AS BURLESON DROPS LINES

U.S. LETS GO OF SYSTEMS IN FACE OF STORM

Returns Control to Owners, Avoiding Labor Fight.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING

Washington, D. C., June 5.—[Special.]—Facing the imminent danger of a general strike of telegraph and post office telephone operators unless he yielded concessions to the demands of the unions and affiliated labor, Postmaster General Burleson, in an order issued tonight hastily surrendered operation of the telegraph and telephone systems to their owners.

With the government washing its hands of what promised to be an extremely embarrassing situation, S. J. Koenkamp, president of the Commercial Telegraphers' union, immediately called a strike of the 3,000 Western Union operators in the ten eastern states and directed that the strike be extended by degrees to the Western Union offices throughout the country. He predicted that the Western Union lines from coast to coast will be tied up within a few days.

Pressure on Burleson.
Koenkamp had been pressing Postmaster General Burleson to make the same concessions to the union that he demanded of the telegraph companies before they were taken over by the government. He informed Burleson that a general strike would be called unless the demands were met. When Burleson "got from under" and left the union to face again its old opponent, the Western Union, which he refused to make concessions, Koenkamp declared the only recourse to be a strike.

Burleson had asserted that under government operation the operators were employees of the government and not a strike against the government would not and would not be tolerated.

Good Ahead with Plans.
Koenkamp disregarded this dictum and proceeded with his plans, which he expected to have begun to materialize at the last strike of operators in Atlanta, called a few days ago. It was up to Burleson to make good his assertion that a strike against the government would not be tolerated.

In the case of a general strike the postmaster general would have been against a bigger job to enforce his ruling than no employed could strike against the government. He was contented with the necessity of court action, if not the use of troops, and a later conflict with organized labor, which would have injured the administration and the Democratic party.

Approved by Wilson.
In this dilemma, with probably only a few weeks of government operation remaining before action by congress to return the lines to their owners, the postmaster general decided that disaster was the better part of valor and promptly let go the tail of the bear.

The action was taken with the approval of the president, between whom and the postmaster general the cables have been humming for the last forty-eight hours.

The government relinquished the actual operation of the wire systems upon the promulgation of the order early this evening.

It does not, however, relinquish technical government control of the systems. The increased telegraph and telephone rates are to be continued in force, and the prohibition of discrimination against union members obtains until the proclamation of peace or earlier action by congress terminating government control.

Statement by Burleson.
In explaining, Mr. Burleson said: "The president having recommended the return of the wire systems and the control of the owning companies to their operation, and the senate committee having taken action looking to their immediate return, and the house committee in its hearings on the proposed legislation having indicated concurrence in the suggested immediate return with or without legislation, so recommended, I feel it my duty to now return the actual control of operations to the companies."

Some days ago I directed the necessary orders to be prepared to accompany this and have today issued same. These orders do not affect questions of rates and finance with which the

MAN SHOT AND DUMPED FROM SPEEDING AUTO

Pill Box Leads to Identification; Gang Murder?

A man about 30 years old was found on the street car tracks at Cicero avenue and Potomac street at 11:30 o'clock last night. He died in St. Anne's hospital a few minutes after he was taken there. He had been shot in an auto and dumped out.

The police at 3 o'clock identified the victim as Joe Doyle, who, they say, has a police record. They believe it was a "gang" murder.

Barney Grogan, west side politician, has a saloon at Van Buren street and Racine avenue and his place has been the scene of many fights.

Thomas Maroney was killed some time ago under circumstances similar to that which killed the latest victim. He was thrown from an automobile.

Citizens Hear Shots.
About 11:30 Charles Johnson, 4325 Kammerling avenue, and Albert Kessel, 4324 Kammerling avenue, heard three shots. Looking out of their windows they saw an auto driving past at high speed. About the same time Motor-man A. S. Andrews, who was driving a Cicero avenue car south, passed the same machine going north. He noticed the lights went out both front and back. At Potomac avenue he saw the body lying across the car tracks.

He stopped and was joined by Kessel and Johnson. They called on a passing autoist. They lifted the body in and the driver sped to the hospital. The man was alive when he reached the hospital, but died without regaining consciousness.

Pill Box Gives Clue.
Sergeant George Piersol of the Austin police rushed to the hospital, but arrived after death had occurred. He searched the victim's clothes and found an envelope and pill box on which was the address of J. E. Mauls, druggist, at Racine avenue and Taylor street. The druggist's records showed he had filled the prescription several times in the last few years for a man named Doyle, but had never seen Doyle. A woman usually brought the prescription and got the medicine. The pill box eventually led to Doyle's identification.

FIND CHICAGOAN IN THE CANAL AT ORLAND, ILL.

The body of a man between 30 and 40 years old, believed to be that of the L. Hansen, 5327 Cortell, but none, salesman for a Chicago steel company, was taken from the drainage canal north of Orland late yesterday afternoon.

Several cars bearing the name of Hansen were found in the pockets. Hansen amazed the city several months ago by a series of bizarre pranks he made during a hectic three weeks. He bought neckwear and other articles by the wholesale, and insisted on paying a Chinese laundryman a bill of a few cents with a check.

Seattle Is Rocked by Slight Local Earthquake

Seattle, Wash., June 5.—[Khat seemingly] was a local earth disturbance gave buildings in Seattle a slight shaking up about 10:30 o'clock tonight, the disturbance being also felt as far north as North Bend, Wash., about forty-five miles from here. The University of Washington seismograph did not record today's disturbance.

WAR WORN 330 MARCH AS MEN, NOT AS HEROES

Surgeons to Ailing World Weary but at Peace.

BY PERCY HAMMOND.

They looked rather bored as they marched past the Governor's stand in Michigan avenue yesterday, 6,000 or more of them, strong, hard, weary, tanned militiamen, home from the wars.

Heroes? No, not "heroes." After looking them over I should hesitate to call them heroes. I know that they hate the word. Just plain Illinois soldiers, who, having had to engage in some bloody business, had transacted it as best they could, and were anxious to wash up and call it a day.

No haloes were to be suspected on top of their helmets, and the dim, fanatic light of the "dreamy crusader" was not discernible in their clear and practical eyes. They seemed like tired surgeons after a major operation upon a sick world, and they wanted to forget it.

Last of the Reviews.
Of course, the review of the last of the units of the Prairie division has to be. Impatient as the soldiers were about it, they would have liked less to come back in silence. Moreover, it was a final and an important duty to give us others a glimpse of the sacrifice that is patriotism. As they trudged past the General and the Governor in Grand park yesterday, the rhythm of their steps seemed to say: "They were game. They were brave. They were true. They were home. They are home."

They were of the boys who spoiled a perfectly good, routine war by cutting in with new and outlandish courage and endurance.

We shall know it less as the days go by, but the best of us were in France, and the best of us who are left are the better for having been there. The deep purple of this commonwealth has been marching past lately, modest gentlemen, unafraid, Reilly's regiment, with its Rainbow emblem; the Prairie division of the national guard, with its golden cross—

Year rides in sable.
Courage in gold.

War is a mad and filthy game that should be pulled by the police, but by some strange paradox it seems to ennoble those who take part in it.

Recalls Other Parades.
The news of yesterday's review will be found elsewhere in THE TRIBUNE. This is merely the junk of it. I was assigned to it only because I had seen the four best American parades.

The first was on Christmas day, when I saw American soldiers viewed in the snowy foothills of the Vosges by the President and Gen. Pershing. The second was a week later, when a brigade of Marines marched down a bleak German mountainside and, with me as the only spectator, defied into a sinister valley, to be commended by its generals for valor.

The third was in Grand-père, in France, when a platoon of regulars blundered in that desolate rural, a bloody array, rusty with American blood, paraded for Mr. McCutcheon. The fourth was Reilly and his outfit going through the loop in the rain.

A Happy Hannibal.
Well, Col. Foreman looked like a happy Hannibal as he neared Gov. Lowden's stand yesterday, and upon his face was the pleased expression of one who had taken them over and had brought them back. I got a good thrill as my old friend marched by the governor, because I felt that as glad as he had been to get into it, he was glad to get out, with the knowledge that he and his had done their stint.

Next was Col. Davis and the boys of the 123d from Oak Park, Geneseo, Moine, Rock Island, Alton, and other points suburban. The smart and nimble gunners of Illinois were they, but without, alas! the devilish cannon with which they operated across the seas.

Artillerymen benefit of their instruments are not so spectacular.

Hackett Back from a Hospital.
When Col. Hackett of the 124th appeared, however, with his men from East St. Louis and thereabouts, I arose and shouted. For when I saw Col. Hackett last he and Col. Reilly were together in a hospital near by Paris, and Col. Hackett, having had his jaw shattered off, was wearing what seemed

SOLDIERS TAKE CANADA STRIKE IN OWN HANDS

Pledge Aid to Uphold Law; Urge Aliens Be Deported.

BY ARTHUR M. EVANS.

Winnipeg, Man., June 5.—[Special.]—Mayor Gray began swearing in 2,000 returned soldiers as constables today to preserve law and order in Winnipeg. Rioting at the city hall broke out as the veterans marched up to take the oath. Soldier strikers jeered the anti-strike soldiers, a score of fist fights started, and the police were hurried out on a riot call. With drawn truncheons they went through the crowd and dragged out eight combatants, both strikers and prospective constables.

Meanwhile Mayor Gray opened milk and bread depots in the schools and fire stations, and school children took home the family supplies.

Late this afternoon the food committee summoned the strike committee to the city hall to resist the effort of the strike leaders to starve Winnipeg into submission.

Soldiers Hold Big Meeting.
Returned soldiers filled the Auditorium rink this forenoon at a great meeting to organize the force of constables. They had expected to march on the Temple of Labor, but Gen. H. D. B. Ketchen issued peremptory orders forbidding any action that might precipitate violence. Mayor Gray addressed the soldiers.

The meeting then passed formal resolutions denouncing some of the strike leaders as anarchists and agents of revolution; demanded that the government bring the men responsible for the Winnipeg upheaval "to justice"; urged the immediate deportation of "all undesirable aliens," and declared that the only one big union which Canadian soldiers would recognize was the Union Jack.

Strike Leaders Try Intimidation.
The opening of the third week of the strike found an increase in intimidation by the strike leaders. Reports to the mayor from all parts of the city were that the radicals overnight had clamped on a program of terrorism far more extensive than they had before attempted. They directed it against the wives and children of anti-strikers. Indications of this were shown in the tone of the strike organ, which today dwelt on the "new temper" that is manifesting itself. It said "vigorous action must be taken by labor to force the issue," and that was the keynote to the day's developments.

In the meantime the strikers were holding the latest session of their yet held. About 4,000 were in line and they moved through the streets carrying banners, "Down with Profiteers and Up with the People."

Vancouver Car Men Strike.
Vancouver, B. C., June 5.—Vancouver walked to work today, the union street car men having voted to join the local strike called here in sympathy with the Winnipeg walkout.

Court Involved in Toledo Strike.
Toledo, O., June 5.—A petition was filed in the United States District court here today requesting the court to order the reopening of the Willys-Overland Automobile company plant, which has been closed since the rioting, in which two persons were shot to death last Tuesday. The petition also asks that a restraining order be issued to prevent the idle workers from interfering with the operation of the plant.

Workers Condemn Toledo Shooting.
Atlantic City, N. J., June 5.—[Special.]—Delegates of the international building trades department of the American Federation of Labor in annual convention today expressed resentment over the action of the United States troops in firing upon and killing strikers in Toledo yesterday.

END ALL STRIKES IF THIS PLAN IS FOUND FEASIBLE
Atlantic City, N. J., June 5.—A plan permanently to eliminate strikes, lockouts, and other labor troubles was presented at today's session of the building trades department of the American Federation of Labor. The proposal has the endorsement of Samuel Gompers.

The plan provides for the creation of a national board for jurisdictional awards in the building industry, to be comprised of eight members, three to be international officials of the building trades department and one representative each for the American Institute of Architects, the Engineering Council, the Associated General Contractors of America, the National Association of Builders' Exchanges, and the National Building Trades Employers' association.

The national board for jurisdictional awards is to have power to investigate all disputes and to make awards in accordance with the findings.

CARTOONS OF THE DAY

POLK TO RESIGN AFTER WILSON'S RETURN HOME

Washington, D. C., June 5.—[Special.]—Frank Polk, counselor of the state department and acting secretary of state while Mr. Lansing is abroad, will resign shortly after President Wilson comes home.

It has been rumored for some time that Mr. Polk was not in harmony with the administration and has been asked by the president to resign. He has frequently been placed in an attempt to shield the president from annoyance by the Republican opposition.

Mr. Polk, however, denied emphatically today that he is out of sympathy with the administration. He would not talk about his intention to resign, but admitted that he is going to take a long rest. He has been doing three men's work during the absence of Mr. Lansing and other state department officials and is worn out. He recently came into a fortune of $500,000 from his father's estate.

BOUTS AT UNION STAG INSPIRE 'FREE FOR ALL'

There was a double bill at the stag given to 600 union men at Haymarket theater building last night. The second, and livelier, was impromptu. Three bouts had been staged by the union leaders, the participants being pugilists from Hammond. After the programmed part of the fun, sport and amusement had taken the count, some half dozen spectators started arguments over the relative achievements of the boxing genies. In a minute or two there were all kinds of gyrations and gesticulations, the emphasis of which was evidenced soon by bleeding noses and sore heads.

The stag took place within four blocks of the Desplaines street police station, but the police heard nothing about it.

MAYOR CHOOSES W. H. WESBEY FOR CITY COLLECTOR

William H. Wesbey is the choice of the Thompson camp for city collector. His name probably will be sent to the city council for confirmation Monday. The decision to appoint Mr. Wesbey was arrived at yesterday. He is to take the place made vacant by the fact that Charles J. Forsberg was appointed business manager of the school board. Mr. Wesbey is a Thompson leader in the Twenty-sixth ward. He was defeated in the primaries for alderman by William F. Lipps.

MISSING LINK IS FOUND IN CONGO?

Washington, D. C., June 5.—[Special.]—Prof. R. L. Garner, naturalist and student of monkeys, returned today on the steamship Chicago with four tons of specimens for the Smithsonian institution in Washington and a description of an animal, a cross between a gorilla and a chimpanzee, which he avers, was of such high intelligence that it could talk to a limited degree to natives in the French Congo.

The naturalist said he had spent two years and seven months in the French Congo in the interests of the Smithsonian institution.

Region Called "Infested."
"In all my travels through the jungles I have never come across such a strange animal as the talking gorilla," he said. "I first heard of the beast from natives in the Congo, who said that a certain region was infested with the animals, with which they had learned to talk after a fashion."

Prof. Garner said he induced four natives to accompany him to the habitat of the animals. He said he found they had told the truth and he himself set about to learn to talk to the monkeys, which, in the dark, could be taken for natives.

Lures Male to Death.
One night several of the male apes approached the edge of the village and uttered a strange call which sounded like "Wah-hoo." Prof. Garner said, "This, he declared, was the call of the male for his mate. Interpreted, it meant: 'Where are you?' The answering call, given usually by a female, is 'A-hoo-hoo,' meaning, as Prof. Garner said, 'Here I am.'"

Prof. Garner said he spent weeks perfecting himself in imitating the call of the female. Then one night he answered the call of a male ape, and to his surprise, the animal bounded friskily over the ground to where he stood, with his rifle in his hand. He said he shot the animal and brought its body back with him.

The ape, he said, was more than six feet tall and weighed 200 pounds.

65 HURT WHEN CARR RUNS AWAY IN MILWAUKEE

Milwaukee, Wis., June 5.—Sixty-five persons were injured, many seriously, when an Eighth street car ran down the Sixth street hill from Grand avenue to Wells street, about 6 o'clock tonight, jumped the track, and fell on its side almost a complete wreck.

The car crashed into the fire alarm box, bringing the fire department to the scene.

Black Flags in Austria; Mourn Terms of Peace

COPENHAGEN, June 5.—[By the Associated Press.]—Austria will mourn tomorrow. Black flags will be flown throughout the country, according to dispatches reaching here, as an expression of the feeling of the population over the peace terms handed to Austria.

LATE BULLETINS

PARIS, June 5.—[By the Associated Press.]—When the Germans are handed the allied reply to their counter proposals they will be informed, according to French circles, that the discussion has been finally closed and will be given no less than three or more than five days in which to accept or reject the conditions.

PARIS, June 5.—[By the Associated Press.]—The council of four has informed the grand vizier of Turkey, in answer to his request, that it is ready to hear him, not as a Turkish plenipotentiary but rather in the character of a witness in the case against Turkey.

LONDON, June 5.—[By the Associated Press.]—Andrew Bonar Law, government spokesman, expressed in the house of commons today his opinion that the United States is within her rights in holding the interned German ships.

LONDON, June 5.—The British commander in Afghanistan, replying to the amir's request for an armistice, has given the following terms: The Afghans to move back twenty miles; the British to maintain their present lines; British sea planes to be allowed to patrol the Afghan lines, and the activities of warlike tribes to be discouraged.

SMALL POWERS THREATEN BOLT FROM LEAGUE

Allies Alarmed Over Jap, German, Russian Combine.

BY HENRY WALES.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

PARIS, June 5.—Rumania, Czechoslovakia, Yugoslavia, Poland, Greece, and a few other small nations are strongly threatening to withdraw from the league of nations, owing to the clause in the Austrian treaty which, they state, is a limitation of their sovereignty.

The objectionable clause provides equal rights for minorities in religion, language, national aspirations and rights, and the small countries assert this directly contradicts the league of nations article which provides that internal and domestic affairs of the various nations shall be inviolate and outside the province of the league.

Me Exclusion Question.
The small powers assert that if the great powers insist upon the right to intrude upon their domestic affairs, the league of nations will also have the right to investigate the matter of Japanese land holdings in California, and the colored voting question in the southern states. They declare that Ireland should be protected from the British, suggesting that the league of nations should protect the Irish from the British.

They contend that the big powers are trying to lay down one set of rules for the small nations and another set for the big powers.

It is understood that German agents are secretly working to foment dissatisfaction with the league of nations among the small powers so that a future Teutonic league may find them eligible as members.

Japan and Germany.

Meantime pourparlers between the Japanese and the Germans are still progressing in various neutral centers in Scandinavia and Switzerland, according to the latest confidential reports, and it is understood that Japan is strengthening her hand for a renewal of threats in case the growing discontent over the Shantung disposition breaks out, and attempts are made to revise the treaty agreements.

The Japanese peace commission is keeping closely in touch with American reports and view with alarm the senate's antipathy toward awarding Shantung to Japan. They fear decided opposition may be encountered on this point before the treaty is accepted by the United States.

Looking toward this end the Japanese are cunningly fortifying themselves, it is reported, by establishing "an understanding" with Germany as to what will be the result if the transfer of German rights to Japan in China is disallowed.

Absorption of Russia.

It is understood that Germany has offered attractive propositions to Japan if she will remain outside the league of nations, and that Japan is discussing with the Teutons the absorption of Russia and Siberia if the allies continue to hold off and refuse to recognize the soviets.

In this connection it may be stated that certain communications have been transmitted to the Chinese delegation to the effect that if China refuses to sign the German treaty and refuses to join the league of nations she will be placed directly in line with the Teutons and Japanese plans to absorb her in the new league with Russia and certain other smaller powers, as a rival to the Wilsonian league.

Wilson Will Agree.
If Great Britain and France come to an agreement regarding the revision of the German treaty, the United States will concur. This was the essence of an address made by Wilson yesterday in response to overtures made by Premier Lloyd George to himself and Premier Clemenceau.

The necessity of returning to Washington at the earliest possible moment is the only reason why President Wilson does not insist on sticking to the original treaty, and he is hopeful that the French will compromise the British proposition for concessions.

However, owing to the spread of general strikes in France and the turn French financial affairs are taking, it is feared that M. Clemenceau may be forced to accept Lloyd George's proposals, which include the acceptance of the German alternative for the Saar Basin coal.

"Let France and Britain agree as to the concessions and America will accept them," are the president's words, 1 am told.

This is welcome news to certain

American commissions and experts, as the new British proposals are directly in line with what they suggested months ago, and which the British and French turned down. An international banking group is allied with the Librarians and laborers, who are responsible for Mr. Lloyd George's flop over, I understand. The financiers decided they could not budge President Wilson, and feared to enter into relations with France, owing to the uncertain French financial situation, so they applied leverage to the British delegation.

TURN DOWN PROPOSAL.
PARIS, June 5.—[By the Associated Press.]—Such progress was made by the council of four today that by working through Sunday it is hoped the reply to the German counter proposals may be ready for delivery Monday.

The council held a session this morning with M. Paderewski, Polish premier, present, concerning the Polish frontier in Germany, particularly Silesia, and in the afternoon considered the vigorous protests of Roumania and other Balkan states against giving the league of nations supervision over the protection of racial minorities.

Opposes Polish Changes.
Premier Paderewski appeared twice before the council to protest against the proposed plebiscite in Upper Silesia, and suggested changes in the Polish western frontier which, though comparatively small in territory, are of the most important strategically and from the viewpoint of railway communication.

The council of four yesterday had appointed a commission to draw up a new western frontier of Poland which would have excluded from Poland the eastern tip of the province of Pomerania, having a frontage of about eight miles on the Baltic, twenty-five miles deep, and would also have restored to Germany the important railway junction of Schneidemühl and the districts of Gohrau and Rawicz, south of Posen, on condition that the railway from Rawicz to Lissa be left to Poland.

Outlook Is Brighter.
It was said in authoritative circles tonight that the outlook for an agreement on the reply was more encouraging as a result of today's meeting of the big four. It was considered certain that comparatively few changes would be made in the text of the treaty.

The reply will consist first of a short answer, answering Count von Brockdorff-Rantzau's introduction and the long memorandum taking up all of the counter proposals. Considerable difference of opinion prevails as to the prospect of presenting the reply at an early date. In American circles the hope is entertained that the reply will be made on Monday. French peace conference circles are less optimistic, the belief prevailing that the reply will be ready for presentation before Thursday.

Jealous of Italy.
Behind the successful protest of the small nations against the limitation of armaments lies the story of Jugo-Slav jealousy of Italy and apprehensions on the part of all the small nations in eastern Europe that the league of nations may not, after all, prevent future wars.

Although a general principle incorporated in the covenant of the league of nations provided that the limitation of the armaments of the allied and associated powers shall be a matter for subsequent examination by the league, the council of four fixed in the Austrian treaty the various strengths of the armies which all the states inheriting parts of the Hapsburg monarchy should maintain.

Called Action Unfair.
This evoked one of the principal protests at last week's plenary sessions. The Jugo-Slavs, in particular, declared that it was unfair to limit their armaments and leave their great rival, Italy, with complete freedom in this respect.

The Poles, who are firmly convinced that they may be compelled at no distant date to wage war for the purpose of defending their independence, and do not wish to see themselves and their natural allies restricted in the means of defense, also demanded elimination of this provision.

Goies to Cologne.
VERSAILLES, June 5.—Herr Leinert, burgomaster of Berlin and one of the German peace delegates, is leaving this evening for Cologne. He will be accompanied by the secretary and nine other attaches of the delegation.

Portuguese Congress Asks President Not to Resign.
LISBON, June 4.—President Cato y Castro presented his resignation to congress today. Congress voted to ask the president to reconsider his action.

Summer union suits
THE material can be the finest, the sheerest possible. Still, unless your union suit is cut right it won't be comfortable; the fit's the important thing. These special M. L. R. union suits fit; we wouldn't sell them if they didn't. We've never seen any made of cooler or finer material.

LODGE REVEALS WHAT HE SAW OF PEACE TREATY

Not Wall Street but Un-named Friend Had Copy, He Says.

(BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.)
Washington, D. C., June 5.—[Special.]—The controversy in the senate over the discovery that Wall Street has complete copies of the peace treaty, while the administration denies the document to the American people, has today with increased fury. No vote on any of the pending resolutions relative to the treaty was reached, but indications are that action of a definite character will be taken tomorrow.

Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska, spokesman for the administration, preoccupied the debate when he called for action on his resolution directing the foreign relations committee to investigate the "leak" of the peace treaty to New York financial interests.

Want Wider Resolution.
The Republicans, led by Senator Lodge of Massachusetts, while not opposing the resolution, insisted the scope of the investigation should be widened to include the League to Enforce Peace, headed by former President Taft, the American peace commission at Paris, and the state department.

Senator Johnson of California contended that with the peace treaty in the hands of Wall Street the president could certainly have no objection now to giving the document to the American people. He announced that he would continue his drive for a vote on the resolution calling for the text of the treaty.

Hammer at These Points.
Throughout the five hours of debate the Republicans kept hammering on these points:

That the treaty is in the hands of special interests in Wall Street. That it has been published to the German people and to the neutrals in Europe.

That it is being withheld from the senate and the people of the United States.

The Republicans by their speeches indicated absolute unanimity behind the measure, and it is believed it will receive one or two votes from the Democratic side. This would insure its adoption.

Hitchcock Pitches In.
Senator Hitchcock became so vehement in his denunciation of the "leak," as he put it, of the peace treaty that Senator Lodge called upon him to be careful not to frighten timid senators.

"If the senator from Massachusetts held the treaty in his hands he held stolen goods—goods probably secured by bribery, goods which the president of the United States and other international representatives in Paris had promised should not be made public for public reasons and in order that the negotiation of the treaty might not be interfered with."

"This involves an attack upon the president of the most scandalous character. It conveys to the public mind the idea that there is a secret combination between the commission headed by the president in Paris and the business interests in New York by which the latter are to be given advance information withheld from the senate—a monstrous charge."

Lodge Wants Inquiry.
"I shall be delighted to have an investigation ordered," said Senator Lodge. "If I had had my way we would have adopted this resolution and begun the investigation at once. The senator finds fault that we did not carry on an investigation in New York. I am not aware that we had any authority to carry on an investigation."

"Now let me state all that the committee can possibly find out from me. I will state it now. It will save time. I was shown a copy of the treaty with Germany by a friend of mine who is connected with no interests, entirely a private citizen. How it came into his hands I did not inquire. He is a man of the utmost uprightness of character. If I were at liberty to mention his name—which I am not—the whole country would know that there never was a more outrageous suggestion than to suppose that anything could have come into his hands by corruption. It came to him, I have

REPORT RUSSIAN RED VICTORIES

Victories by the soviet forces are reported on the Estonian and Volga fronts, indicating that Trotsky has at last got his armies under way for extensive spring campaigns. All recent information from soviet Russia has emphasized the size and efficiency of the military organization that the Lenin and Trotsky government has built up. These accounts of the growing military power of the Russian reds were discredited for a time because of the Estonian advance toward Petrograd and the successful drive of the Kolchak armies from Omsk to the Volga river. Yesterday's news developments follow:

1—Reports from Petrograd via Copenhagen state that Russian bolshevik forces have defeated Admiral Kolchak's armies on the south and center along the Volga front. The soviet troops are said to have taken 40,000 prisoners, 100 guns, and much war material.

2—Heavy fighting continues on the Estonian front southeast of Petrograd. The soviet government states the advance on the Russian capital has been checked. Estonian headquarters reports vigorous bolshevik counter attacks west and northwest of Jatkina. Southeast of Riga the Estonians report they are still advancing.

3—It is reported from Silesia sources that Petura, the Ukrainian peasant leader, has captured Proskurov and Berdichev, important railway centers in western Ukraine.

4—The Roumanian press bureau at Bern, Switzerland, has issued a statement denying the report that the bolsheviks have captured Czernowitz, capital of Bukovina.

5—Stockholm reports that the bolsheviks have defeated the Cossacks defeated their forces on the Rur river and forced them to evacuate Uralsk, capital of the territory of Uralsk. This contradicts earlier reports of victory.

Not any question, in a perfectly legitimate way, have no knowledge how. "That copy I had an opportunity to examine—at least one article of it. The text of the treaty covers 208 folios. The whole treaty, French and English text both, covers 415 pages. The only part that I acquired any sort of familiarity with was an article at the end which seemed to be a sort of addendum to the body of the treaty with Germany, because it had nothing to do with the peace with Germany. This established at great length—I think it is as long as the league of nations article—unanimity behind the measure, and it is believed it will receive one or two votes from the Democratic side. This would insure its adoption."

Senator Hitchcock asked who in the state department had made the statement mentioned by Senator Lodge. "Mr. Frank Polk made it to the press," replied Mr. Lodge. "Now I have told the senate all I can give in the way of testimony. It would be a gross breach of faith on my part to state the names of the two gentlemen who are friends of mine who told me they had copies."

"There is no question that copies of the treaty with Germany are in this country. There is no question that they are on sale in neutral countries. Now I see no good reason why we should not have from the state department the official copy of the text of a treaty which the rest of the world has no difficulty in procuring."

"Plain Effort to Deceive." Senator Williams said that from the beginning of the discussion of the treaty in the senate there had been a plain, palpable, and obvious effort to nag, worry, and bedevil the president. "I will undertake to wager a doughnut or two that when we come to find out who has these copies of the treaty we will find that they are Republicans, and that the man who first brought back a copy or several copies was a Republican, or a high financial magnate in the Republican party," the senator continued.

"I suggest, when you begin to investigate, that you investigate your own state department at the start. They said that publicly. "Nobody has denied the presence of those copies here in New York. Of course, there is a copy here in the state department, and I have no doubt that senators more favored than I have seen it. "These copies which the state department says are in the hands of financial interests must have come from Paris."

40,000 KOLCHAK TROOPS, 100 GUNS FALL TO REDS

Swedish Socialist Paper Reports Other Soviet Victories.

BULLETIN.
STOCKHOLM, June 5.—The bolsheviks acknowledge defeat by the Siberians and Cossacks on the Ural river, according to a Helsingfors dispatch. The bolsheviks have been forced to evacuate the town of Uralsk, capital of the territory of Uralsk.

COPENHAGEN, June 4.—The Swedish Socialist newspaper Folkets Dagblad, which is said to be in close communication with the Russian bolshevik government, has received a telegram from Petrograd reporting that the forces of Admiral Kolchak of the Omsk government have been defeated in the south and center, while the northern front is shaking. The soviet troops are said to have captured 40,000 prisoners, 100 guns, and much war material.

The Estonian offensive against Petrograd, the telegram adds, has been stopped and the anti-bolsheviks are retreating in the direction of Jamburg. The telegram continues:

"The British navy attempted to force the Finnish gulf, but retired. "The revolutionary movement against the soviet has been broken and the soviet is stronger than ever."

Quite So.
COPENHAGEN, June 5.—Persistent reports that Petrograd has been captured are "very premature," according to a statement from the official Estonian press bureau here.

A report from Estonian headquarters on Tuesday says that vigorous bolshevik counter attacks west and northwest of Gatchina continue, but have been repulsed by the Estonians. The battle is still going on without decisive results. Nothing is known at Estonian headquarters regarding the reported advance of Finnish troops against Petrograd from the north.

West of Luga the northern corps of the Estonian army is engaged solely in repelling attacks. Southeast of Riga Estonian forces continue to advance toward Kretzburg, according to the report.

Ukrainians Shove Ahead.
BERNE, June 4.—Troops of the army of Gen. Simon Petura, the anti-bolshevik peasant leader in the Ukraine, have captured the railway centers of Proskurov and Berdichev, in western Ukraine. This announcement is made by the Ukrainian press bureau.

Denial of the report that the bolsheviks have captured Czernowitz, the capital of Bukovina, was made today by the Roumanian press bureau here.

ANTI-JAPANESE BOYCOTT GROWS ALL OVER CHINA
PEKING, June 4.—[By the Associated Press.]—The anti-Japanese boycott, which is being fostered by the national students' organization in Peking, is spreading throughout China. The authorities are unable to check the movement and the minister of education and the vice minister have resigned.

Demonstrations were resumed today in Peking, where thousands of workmen are on strike. The university has been closed and converted into a military camp. The government authorities do not wish to arrest the students, who enjoy public sympathy. The police and gendarmes experience great difficulty in handling the youthful street orators.

A mandate issued by the president yesterday ordering the students to return to their studies has not been obeyed. The students of Nanking college appear to be leading the anti-Japanese movement.

WASHINGTON NEWS—IN BRIEF—

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Washington Bureau of The Tribune.]
WASHINGTON, D. C., June 5.

FACING the danger of a general strike of union operators unless he made concessions to their demands, Postmaster General Burleson relinquished operation of the telegraph and telephone systems to their owners.

Finding the union thrown back upon the private employers, who had refused to yield to the demands, S. J. Konenkamp, president of the commercial telegraphers, immediately called a strike of the Western Union in the southeastern states and directed that the strike be extended to all offices of the Western Union within the next few days.

He said the strike might extend to other companies also. The electrical workers employed by the wire system are scheduled to strike June 16.

SUBCOMMITTEES of the house committee on investigation of expenditures of the war department probably will include Representative Graham of Illinois, chairman of the full committee, as head of the subcommittee on ordnance; Representative Madden of Chicago, corps and cantonniers, if he will accept the place; Representative Walsh of Massachusetts, quartermaster supplies; Representative Reavis of Nebraska, aircraft; and Representative Johnson of South Dakota, expenditures abroad. Hearings will be begun by July 1.

COMMERCIAL needs of Mississippi valley states were set forth before thirty senators from that section at a dinner given tonight by the Mississippi Valley association. H. H. Merrick, of Chicago, president of the organization, presided.

The army air service today announced the sale of 1714 airplanes and 4,893 engines of "obsolete" type to the Curtiss Aeroplane and Motor corporation for $2,720,000. The original value of the equipment was $22,500,000.

MISS MARGARET H. STEVENS of Chicago is one of eight American Red Cross women who have been invited by the United States marines in England to become associate members of the "first to fight" forces because of the work they did for the marines in the London canteen for marines and soldiers.

It was made known today, following reports that American marines had been landed at Costa Rica, where revolutionary troubles are at height, that American war vessels off the coast of Central America have instructions not to send force ashore except to protect American lives and then only when communication with the home government is impossible. Officials doubted that marines had been landed on Costa Rican soil.

Canada's Debt Two Billion, or $220 for Each Person
Ottawa, June 5.—Canada's debt, when expenditures authorized for the current year are made, will aggregate $1,800,000,000, or $220 per capita, Sir Thomas White, minister of finance, announced in a discussion of the dominion budget in the house of commons today.

The Rhineland republic started at a late day rather inauspiciously. The Germans in Coblenz are convinced outside influence is responsible for it. These alleged influences were not allowed to start the separatist movement. It is supported by the Cologne Volks Zeitung, which speaks for the Centrum or Catholic party. Many journals have similar sympathies.

The plan was discovered by the Prussian authorities. Since then Kaster and Kuckoff, representatives of the Centrum in the Prussian diet, have resigned, charged with connivance in the deal. The Centrum party denied responsibility, and its newspapers made an about-face after the fiasco.

The "Labor Committee."
Dr. Dorten stepped forward under authority of a proclamation bearing obscure signatures of the "labor committee." From him Col. J. L. Hunt, chief of the civil affairs of Coblenz, received a letter introducing the government.

Under the circumstances reports from Paris of the formation of a republic is the biggest news to come out of Germany since the armistice. It may be viewed skeptically by some.

CATHOLICS BACK RHINE REPUBLIC WITH FRENCH AID

But Other Residents Shy at Authority of New President.

COBLENZ, June 5.—Rhinelanders are taking to the new republic like a chicken takes to the water here in Coblenz. There are many who wish to renew relations with the emperor. Demonstrations against a government by the republic, which opened its office in Wiesbaden and is incubating in territory occupied by the French, continue along the river there today near Mannheim and Boppard, where the French are billeted. In the latter place a guard was stationed at a window where a poster was exhibited saying Berlin had ordered the arrest of Dr. Dorten, provisional president. But the fact he is in Wiesbaden is sufficient guarantee of his liberty. He will not be disturbed until the foreign military administration there is discontinued.

LOVING CUP FOR FOREMAN WINS TRIBUTE TO MEN

Colonel of 122d F.A. Says
His Soldiers Were Best in War.

"Chicago is richer as a city today than it was yesterday."

That is the compliment paid to the men of the 122d field artillery yesterday by Col. Milton J. Foreman after he had sipped rare wine from a silver loving cup presented to him by the regiment's auxiliary. The presentation occurred in the Congress hotel immediately after the parade.

"In behalf of the folks—friends, sweethearts, relatives—who stayed at home I desire to present this loving cup to you, Col. Foreman," said James Dunlap, president of the board of directors of the auxiliary. "You took these men over there, helped and cared for them, led them in their fighting, and now you have brought them home to us again."

"Every man, woman, or child in Chicago owes to you an unpaid debt, and with this little token goes the love, respect, and gratitude of the entire city."

Tribute to the Soldiers.

Col. Foreman sat silent just one minute. He looked at the cup, then at his friends.

"You should have given it to the boys," he said. "They did everything; they won it and it should be theirs. I will accept it because of them and because of you."

"I was fortunate enough to have charge of the best artillery outfit that took part in the war. The work they did, the fighting, the smiling, the grinning and bearing those men went through has won the respect of every soldier in government service."

"I would rather have marched at the head of those men this morning through the streets of Chicago than have Pershing's job."

Maj. Harold P. Goodnow and Mrs. E. F. Goodnow made short speeches. Mrs. Goodnow is president of the auxiliary.

COL. ABEL DAVIS WELCOMED BY REALTY BOARD

Col. Abel Davis at his first public formal talk since his return from France was given a stirring reception yesterday by his fellow members of the Chicago real estate board at a luncheon in the board's rooms.

"This was not a war of soldiers; it was yours just as much as ours, for the agony you endured at the loss of your loved ones, for the privations you suffered to aid us, and for the splendid spirit in which you worked," he said.

"Not our bayonets, our grenades, our infantry attacks, our artillery warfare, or our air forces won the war for America, but the individual soldier with his resourcefulness, ingenuity, intelligence, courage, and devotion to duty."

PIRE FIGHTERS TO MEET HERE.
The annual meeting of the Railway Fire Protection association will be held in the Hotel La Salle Oct. 21, 22, and 23, according to action taken by the executive committee at Wilmington, N. C. yesterday. The committee in charge is composed of George R. Hurd, Illinois Central; J. A. Fisher, Rock Island; and A. W. Smallen, St. Paul railroad.

$5 BILL IS MEMENTO OF FLOWER GIRLS' PART IN BIG PARADE

Despite her protests that she did not want the money, a gray haired stranger put a $5 bill in the hand of Miss Irma Maxine Bregstone, 1021 South Ashland avenue, one of the girls handing out flowers to the soldiers yesterday afternoon.

Miss Bregstone, who is the daughter of Mrs. Phillip Bregstone, in charge of a number of flower girls, was a state street retail store.

"You are the young lady who has been working real hard handing out the flowers, so take this," the stranger told Irma, pushing the bill into her hand. She said last night that the bill would be paid in a scrapbook as a memento of the occasion.

WEARY OF WAR, THEY COME; NOT HEROES, BUT MEN

Surgeons to an Ailing World Accept but Need No Cheers.

to be a baseball mask, and he could not speak.

As Col. Allen and the 108th engineers approached women jumped out from the sidewalk and put roses into the miniature castle which is the emblem of the engineers.

The sex is ever to a soldier kind.

The colonel was tall and handsome and military, and when he saluted those in the reviewing stand knew that a soldier was passing by.

Sanitary trains, field hospital units, ambulance corps, followed; the soldiers who, I think, had all the worst of it. Their function was hideous sewage of the war. All of them had looked the red specter in the face, and they, too, had encountered shattered towns and broken roads and fear, without the helpful stimulant of combat.

Hair Turned White.

I shan't forget my meeting with a Chicago doctor who was red headed a year ago in Englewood, but whose hair is as white as snow. The governor's son, Sergt. Lowden, stepped by his dad yesterday and there was no visible signal between them, save the "Eyes right" of the soldiers' platoon commander.

There wasn't much cheering around where I was. We are, it seems, expert at the hushed hosanna. Superficially our silence might appear to be inappreciation, but soldiers, I hope, know better than that. And even if they don't know, something told me that they don't care.

TWO RUN OVER BY TRAIN.
J. J. Kelly, 2044 West Twenty-ninth street, and Peter Cereka, 618 West Fourteenth street, car repairs for the Pennsylvania railroad, were seriously injured yesterday when run over by a freight train. They were taken to the hospital at the Park Row station and the train started down the grade. The men were thrown under the train. Their cries were heard and the engineer stopped and extricated them.

'ILLINOIS, WE ARE HERE,' SAY LAST PRAIRIE HEROES

Final Pageant of War's End Gives City a Thrill.

BY FRED D. PASLEY.

The men so tumultuously acclaimed yesterday will come back tomorrow civilians, secure in the knowledge that the heroism promised in Pershing's words at Lafayette's tomb has been fulfilled through them and their fallen comrades. And their challenge will be, "Illinois, we are here."

But yesterday, . . . Say, did you see the parade? Or were you one of the parading thousands who squeezed and pushed and battered and elbowed and jammed and damned in a futile endeavor to penetrate the wall of human backs extending along the Michigan avenue sidewalks from Twelfth to Randolph and then around the corner for the remainder of the line of march?

The Parade's the Thing.

The parade was the thing, the picture, the glorious emotional climax of the day. To be sure there were banquets after, and reunions in hotel lobbies and Grant park, and motor tours and parties, not to mention the demonstrations at the stations late in the afternoon when the units entrained for Camp Grant.

But it was the parade that provided the occasion for the mass enthusiasm—the spontaneous outburst of feelings pent up for an eternity of years. The parade was scheduled to start from Twelfth and Michigan at 11 o'clock.

By 10:30 the people were banked sidewalk deep on either side and even an L guard could not have mortised in another human being. In the grandstands they were sandwiched in tier on tier. Some of them brought dinner baskets. All carried pennants with devices of the various units, and American flags.

Somewhere a clock struck 11. As if by magic all eyes, from Gov. Lowden down, were turned toward the Park Row station.

"They ought to be starting," said Doc.

One of the Stay at Home.

Perhaps you don't know Doc. He is merely one of the vast legion of stay at home, forced to accept the inexorable decree. "They also serve who only stand and wait." He and his pals joined up in the old First cavalry the day after the United States entered the war.

When the regiment was federalized the regular army physicians disqualified him—impaired vision, defective kneecap, flat feet. Doc doffed his uniform and came back. Then he tried the marines, the navy, the Red Cross. Same experience. Next he went to the Salvation Army. He had signed up to go across purveying doughnuts when the armistice was signed.

And Here They Come

"There they come!" a woman screamed.

Down the avenue a band was playing. Khaki clad figures could be seen debouching behind a platform of mounted police from the Park Row station parking court. Away off in the distance there was handclapping. Faintly heard, at first, then it became loud.

er as the crowds nearer took it up. Flags and pennons began to wave madly. A yell went up. Another and another.

The figures came abreast the governor's stand. In the lead were Maj. Gen. George Bell Jr. and Brig. Gen. Henry T. Todd Jr. of the 18th artillery brigade. Gen. Bell left the parade for the governor's stand leaving Gen. Todd to lead it.

"There's the Foreman and his outfit."

Wow! The grandstand had become a screaming bedlam. Women were dancing on the flimsy circus chairs. Flags were brandishing in uncomfortable proximity to one's nose and eyes. The human wall along the avenue had become a straggling, frenzied mob—stamping feet, waving arms, yips and yells. One gentleman adjacent tossed his black derby in the street (maybe there was method in his madness).

Foreman Unmistakable.

It was Foreman, all right. No mistaking that swing of the bulging shoulders, that snappy, resolute tread, the bulldog chin protruding from under the helmet tilted at a careless angle over the left eye. He wore no side button in his right hand—habit of cavalry days—was the inevitable riding crop.

"Hello, Milt," yelled the gent nearest the derby, and Foreman's retorted, unheeded features expanded into a broad grin.

One remembered that grin. It had characterized Foreman, the elderman, Foreman, the attorney; Foreman of the old First cavalry. It had been with him in his strenuous battles in municipal politics, whether he was on top or temporarily under—his grin.

Old Friends Appear.

"There's old Blackie," yelled Doc. "Remember Blackie. Gub reporter. One of the gang that used to hang around King's."

There's Kent—Kent Hunter—captain of headquarters. And look—Charley Riddle—the impressionist artist—joined the day we declared war. Look at that guy. Corporal. Guess the old bunch didn't make good, eh?

But where are the others? In the band, for instance, Albert Bohene. You remember Al? He left the Chicago band to join up. Played the oboe. There's one short. Al fell in the Meuse-Argonne, about the same time Charley Huber got it. Corporal Charley of the headquarters.

Carried the mail for the 1st battalion. Keisted on delivering his pack up in the Argonne that day when the Germans were laying down a heavy fire of shrapnel. He was hit. Died Oct. 12. "O, you Red Breen; Marie's waiting for you" boomed a husky youth just in front of the grandstand and a stalwart artilleryman registers extreme self-consciousness.

A Gold Star Mother.

Batter A is passing. Observe the little woman with the black bonnet and the gold star on the left sleeve, who has arisen to wave her handkerchief from the top tier of the 122d auxiliary section. Her boy, Howard J. Wilhelm, was a connoisseur with A until he was killed in action in the Argonne Sept. 27.

The regiment is passing in platoon front and there are many absent faces. In the auxiliary section you observe other women waving flags and handkerchiefs. Some wear gold stars, others do not. But all the hands that wave greeting tremble somewhat. They didn't tremble that way a few months ago when they were plying knitting needles—knitting in street cars, at theaters, everywhere—knitting socks and helmets and sweaters.

Girls Storm Lines.

On they come—Battery B, Battery C, D, E, and down the line—every man lithic of limb, steel muscled, bronzed, and clear of eye. And what's this? The traffic policemen have been defied. They seem not to mind it. Girls in summery white dresses carrying huge baskets have broken through the lines.

They slip alongside the marching column and tear the tissue covering from the baskets. They are filled with petals of roses, carnations, apple blossoms. They toss them in the air in great handfuls and the petals fall upon the rusty, dented, tin derbies. The tenants grin sheepishly.

Following the 122d came the 123d, commanded by Col. Charles G. Davis, and the 124th, commanded by Col. H. B. Hackett. They were warmly welcomed. They are composed of units from downstate and from Chicago suburbs. A large delegation had come in from Oak Park to greet Battery D of the 123d.

108th Engineers.

Just behind the 124th artillery there marched the 108th engineers, Col. Henry A. Allen's regiment. Their history is linked with that of the Prairie division in all the major battles of the American phase of the war. They helped win the war by trigonometry. They were the men who predece the doughboys, laying pontoon bridges and railroads over swamps and rivers.

Bringing up the rear of the parade was Lieut. Col. George C. Amerson's 108th sanitary train—200 men, the majority of them from Chicago. They served with the British, the Australians, the French, and with the Yankee troops in the Argonne-Meuse.

Eleven killed and fifty-five wounded was their record. One of the wounded men marched yesterday. He limped and his left hand was in a sling. He was the only cripple to march in the parade. A dog trotted beside him. As he passed the reviewing stand a girl ran out and pinned a red rose on him. She was Blanch Cullinan of the Chicago Normal college.

Dog Wins Decoration.

"I can't wear it," he whispered, "but my dog can."

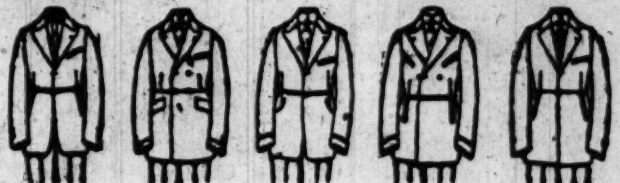

The dog—a mongrel with a black body and white ears—wagged its tail as Miss Cullinan pinned the rose to his Sam Brown belt. The crowd cheered.

He wore it through the parade and even at the banquet at the Congress hotel.

Col. Foreman's men were also banqueted at the Congress. The 108th engineers had their homecoming party at the Morrison.

And so Chicago welcomed home the last of her sons. For us the war is ended. But—

In Flanders fields the poppies blow
Between the crosses, row on row,
Last we forget.

SEEK TO SHOW OUTSIDE VOICE IN EDITORIALS

Ford Lawyers Plead Harvester Company Interests in Mexico.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
Mount Clemens, Mich., June 5.—(Special.)—Attorneys for Henry Ford read editorials and depositions to the jury in Judge Tucker's court today in an effort to prove that the Chicago Tribune was actuated by malice in attacking Mr. Ford three years ago in an editorial.

Through editorials and cartoons covering the period from the sinking of the Lusitania to the breaking off of diplomatic relations with Germany, Mr. Ford's lawyers sought to prove that the Tribune stood consistently against war with Germany and for the seizure of Mexico. Mr. Ford, they argued, stood in the way of the Tribune, and for this, they contend, he was made the target of editorial wrath.

Seek to Show Selfish Motive.
In an attempt to show selfish motives of the Tribune editors for wishing war with Mexico they read depositions showing that relatives of one of the editors owned stock in the Standard Oil and International Harvester companies, which, by implication, would profit by intervention in Mexico.

Much of this evidence may be stricken out of the record by Judge Tucker, who announced today that it seemed "remote" and "far fetched" and that he would like to hear arguments as to its admissibility. The reading will be concluded tomorrow morning and arguments heard.

Quotes Goldbeck Article.
The court permitted the reading of a special article entitled "The Idiotic War," written by Edward Goldbeck for the Tribune. This was printed April 2, 1916, and argued that a war between the United States and Germany "might be called not only frivolous and criminal but idiotic."

Following this, Attorney William Lucking read an editorial printed in the Tribune April 21, 1916, entitled "Bitter Fruit." This referred to the possibility of war with Mexico and Germany. A paragraph upon which Mr. Ford's attorneys build much of their case reads: "Fate holds a ripe apple to our lips in Mexico and bitter fruit in Flanders. Yet our president persistently turns from the golden fruit and as persistently seems determined finally to make us eat of the bitter one. Humanity! What crimes may soon be committed in thy name!"

In another portion of this editorial, however, the writer specifically stated the Tribune did not advocate "grabbing" Mexico.

Harvester Official Deposition.
Another editorial, printed May 4,

WILL SING

Fiancee of P. F. Volland, Slain by Woman, on Commencement Program.

Miss Gladys Swarthout

Although in mourning for her dead fiancé, P. F. Volland, who was slain recently by Mrs. Vera Trepagnier, Miss Gladys Swarthout, daughter of Mr. Frank Swarthout, 5436 Winthrop avenue, Edgewater, will sing at the Bush Temple theater June 13. Shortly afterward she will go abroad to complete her musical education. Miss Swarthout said she had received a number of offers to sing in musical comedy and light opera, but has refused them.

1916, entitled, "It Is a Condition, Not a Villa, That Confronts Us," was read. This advocated the pacification of Mexico and the establishment of a stable government. Other editorials on the Mexican situation in 1916 were read, and then Mr. Lucking came to the deposition of George A. Ranney, secretary and treasurer of the International Harvester company.

This deposition showed that the company purchased sisal fiber in Mexico during 1915 and 1916. Attorney Weymouth Kirkland, for the Tribune, objected. He said he would admit that Col. Robert R. McCormick, one of the editors of the Tribune, and Mrs. McCormick, his mother, own stock of the International Harvester company.

Depositions show that McCormick owns 500 shares and Col. McCormick 165 shares. Mr. Kirkland said: "I submit it is too remote to say that because Mrs. McCormick or Col. McCormick had stock of the International Harvester company and because they might have had some trouble at one time or other in getting sisal out of Mexico, it shows the motive on the part of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE for wanting intervention in Mexico.

Have No Voice in Tribune.

"In addition to that, there is nothing in this deposition, nor have they any depositions that can prove, nor, I take it, can they prove what the policy of the International Harvester company was, or that the International Harvester company thought that it was to their interest to have intervention in Mexico on the part of the United States."

"The proof also shows that the International Harvester company's officers, while they are related—I think cousins—to the McCormicks, Col. McCormick of the Chicago Tribune and his mother, still they have nothing to do with the policy of the Tribune, own no stock in the Tribune, and never took any advice or consulted with the Tribune concerning this Mexican policy."

Court Calls It "Remote."

The Court—It does seem remote, I should say. There is no question about that. What is the bearing that is claimed for it?

Attorney Murphy, for Mr. Ford—We show in this deposition direct financial proprietary interest of one of the chief stockholders of the Tribune company and her son, one of the editors and managers of the Tribune, in the International Harvester company; that one of the chief sources, I suppose, for that company is Mexico, and that their business has been hampered by interference in obtaining their supply of sisal, and it is offered as tending to throw light upon the attitude of the Tribune—to show their financial interest which would be served by the taking over of Mexico.

The Court—Supposing they did have an interest in the harvester company. That of itself does not prove anything out of the way.

Mr. Murphy—Certainly not, but it has a very important bearing, it seems to me, tending to show the policy of the paper, which is under the control of one of the stockholders of the International Harvester company that is served by their interests.

Too Much Implication.

The Court—You claim to go further, or intend to go further, merely to show their ownership of certain stock? Any ownership of certain stock in a company which uses an article taken from Mexico is not proof that the party using that fact to maliciously malign somebody else that did not want intervention in Mexico.

Mr. William Lucking—I want to call your attention to the fact that the depositions will show that the first cousins, family connections of the people who control the Tribune, are interrelated and intermarried with the people that control the Standard Oil company and they get about one-fifth of their crude oil in Mexico.

The Court—That is not sisal. Mr. Lucking—No, but it has the same connection; the other branch of the family; and it seems to me this testimony carries weight that the jury should give it.

The Court—That is possible, but it seems to me it is very remote.

After further argument along this line the court said it would admit the deposition for the present.

Ford a Sisal Buyer.

Mr. Ranney told about use of sisal fiber in the manufacture of binder twine. He was asked if he knew the Ford Motor company was in the farm tractor business in 1916. Attorney

Stevenson, for the Tribune, objected.

"Did the International Harvester company know that Henry Ford was a competitor and therefore did the Chicago Tribune have malice against Henry Ford?" he asked.

Mr. Lucking—Yes, if the court please. Whether the first cousins of the Chicago Tribune owners knew that their first cousins in the Harvester business were competitors of the plaintiff, exactly.

The Court—It strikes me that is an awful long way you are going with the proposition.

Attorneys Continue Debate.

The deposition of Harold P. McCormick was next read. He told about the International Harvester company's interests in Mexico. When it came to his relationship through marriage with the late John D. Rockefeller Attorney Stevenson objected.

"We expect to show these family connections are interested in concerns interested in Mexico," said Mr. Lucking.

The Court—Go ahead. That is pretty far fetched.

As the deposition proceeded the attorneys engaged in a long argument over the admission of this whole line of evidence as bearing on the question of malice.

Attorney Stevenson said that there was not the slightest intimation that either the International Harvester company or the Standard Oil company ever advocated intervention in Mexico or ever asked the Chicago Tribune or anybody else to advocate this.

"Here they want us to be held liable for malice of the father-in-law of the cousin of the second cousin of the defendant," he said.

Must Show Relation to Editorial.

"Now, if they are prepared to show that John D. Rockefeller, or Harold McCormick, or his wife, or Medill McCormick's wife, who was Miss Ruth Hanna, or anybody else, advised or inspired this article, then it may be admissible to introduce the testimony of their malice, but they must show that it was inspired by them and that they had that feeling of enmity. Even as to people who confessedly entertained feelings of malice, unless they had something directly to do with it, the publication of the article complained of, it would not be competent testimony."

"They know, as has been stated here time after time, that Mr. Raymond wrote this article; that Mr. Blake, his superior, passed on the article; and that finally Col. McCormick approved of it."

"Now, if there is anybody, if your honor please, in that chain that inspired these men to do these things, why, then, that might have some bearing on it, but even this kind of testimony would have no tendency to show malice."

Argues as to Malice.

Mr. Murphy replied that the editorial was brought to the specific attention of Col. McCormick, and Mr. Alfred Lucking argued the main issue of malice.

"Your honor will remember," he said, "in the article read to you of President Wilson's, there was a warning to the people not to pay too close attention, or to assume as true, those dispatches from the border with respect to outrages on American citizens because there were private interests in this country that were determined to embroil us with Mexico in order to enable us to gobble Mexico. We claim that the Tribune was one of those, and that it had been advocating and assuming that side of the question which has been fought by our government for eight or ten years past. It was taking the side of private interests who wished our government to go in and take possession of that country."

"It found an obstacle in Mr. Ford, not because he was for Germany, but because he was against the aid of senators and representatives in obtaining increasing ocean shipping out of South Atlantic and gulf ports."

SELF-INFLICTED WOUND KILLS.
Joseph Goldstein, 711 South Independence boulevard, who shot himself Wednesday while brooding over ill health and business worries, died yesterday as a result of his wound. He is survived by a wife, Anna, and a daughter 4 years of age.

ASK MISSISSIPPI VALLEY U. S. BANK
Washington, D. C., June 5.—(Special.)—Thirty senators were guests at a dinner given tonight by the Mississippi Valley association. The senators present included at least one from each of the twenty-two states represented in the organization.

President Merrick of Chicago, who presided, told the senators that the association wanted support in congress for a banking corporation of the Mississippi valley. "This valley wide institution, owned and controlled by banks and leading industrial and commercial interests," he said, "should operate under a federal charter with headquarters either at Chicago or St. Louis and branches at leading valley points."

"We also want the aid of senators and representatives in obtaining increasing ocean shipping out of South Atlantic and gulf ports."

Cartoons entitled "Today" and "If Germany Can Only Get Us In It" were offered, but the court did not permit the jury to see them.

SHEA CHUCKLES OVER SUSPICION HE'S BANDIT AID

Jailed, Pleads Ignorance of "Death Auto" Explosion.

A portly, red faced, gray haired man sat mooping his brow last night in a cell at central detail station. He jammed a tune which sounded something like "In Again, Finnegan." Then he would laugh.

The man was Cornelius P. Shea, known among the labor leaders of the world as "Con Pay" Shea, former president of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters of America, who during his time called strikes which crippled business in Chicago and many other cities.

"Con" was laughing because he was "pinched" for dealing with a "mob" of bank robbers.

The police say it was "Con's" automobile that was wrecked by some powerful explosive at Victoria street and Kedzie avenue early Wednesday morning. The object, they say, was to get rid of it because it was supposed to have been used in the Hegewisch bank robbery, and its body had been torn by bullets from policemen's revolvers.

Gives Himself Up.
"Con," who says he is now business agent and treasurer of the theater-janitors' union, and who recently was acquitted of a charge of conspiracy in connection with the junkmen's union, was not arrested. He gave himself up to the police after he had talked with Charles E. Erbstein, his attorney.

For two weeks he had been a much sought man. Capt. Wesley H. Westbrook learned Shea's automobile had been kept at the garage of L. J. O'Brien, 4638 Washington boulevard, and that Harry Anderson, employed by O'Brien, drove the car to "Con's" home, 4751 Park avenue, the morning of the Hegewisch bank robbery. He also heard Shea returned it to the garage a few minutes after noon the same day, with many bullet holes in it, and asked O'Brien to "plug up the holes." Then he disappeared.

Since then detectives have been burning up gasoline trying to find "Con" and ask him a "few questions." They had the car located, but it disappeared. Then the explosion came and their "evidence" was gone.

"Kidding Us?" He Asked.

When Shea gave himself up he was taken to the state's attorney's office and confronted with O'Brien and Anderson. Assistant State's Attorney John Lowrey was present.

"Hello, Jack!" was Shea's greeting to Lowrey.

"Con, I want you to tell me all you know about the Hegewisch bank robbery," said Mr. Lowrey.

"Speak a little slower and more distinctly," answered Shea.

"Tell me what you know about the bank robbery," said Mr. Lowrey.

"Kidding me, Lowrey? Don't do that."

"Well, it was your machine that was found with the bullet holes and then was blown up. These two men saw the bullet holes in it."

Lowrey pointed to Anderson and O'Brien.

"Say, Lowrey, I don't know a thing about any machine with bullet holes in it," said Shea, "or about any machine that was blown up. You're on the wrong track; switch."

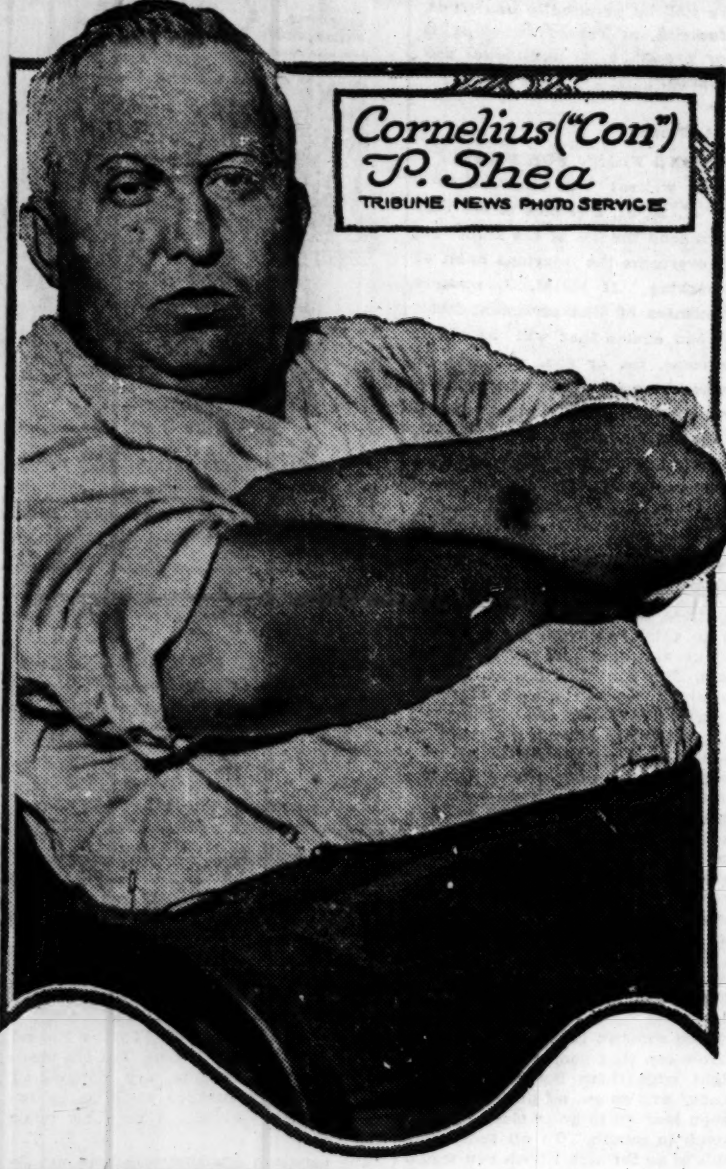

Clies Old Indictments.

"There are some indictments against you that can be reinstated," Shea says Lowrey remarked.

"Well," Shea replied, "since I returned to Chicago in September, 1916,

50 SLEUTHS IN DRIVE ON CRIME SEIZE 50 MEN

Bandits Are Active in All Parts of City Night and Day.

The second night of Chicago's "drive against crime" by "fifty picked detectives" netted a result of one arrest to a detective, fifty men, described by the police as "known criminals," being lodged behind bars. There were raids in all parts of the city, but the police say none of those arrested are "big fish."

Ralph Lauriola, a butcher, 914 South Halsted street, was ordered held to the grand jury without bonds on a charge of murder following the killing, early in the day, of Henry "Hike" Baum, 5209 Emerald avenue, a deputy clerk of the Municipal court, by a bullet fired from an automobile at Fifty-second and Halsted streets.

Four companions, arrested on suspicion with Lauriola, were ordered held as accessories. They are Joseph Restivo and his brother, John, 1482 Larabee street, Carlo Semilla, and Dominio Buttilio, both of 1403 Larabee street. Policemen Michael Mulrovan and John Doherty of the New City station were stripped of their stars and held on orders of Chief Garrity following the death of Michael Kovanda, 5615 South Oakley avenue, as the result of a saloon brawl with the policemen.

Bandits Get $500.
Two shots were fired by a pair of automobile bandits who held up the offices of the White Eagle Brewing company at 3755 South Racine avenue late in the afternoon, threatened six employees with death, and escaped with between $400 and $500.

Mrs. Joseph Novak, owner of a grocery in Berwyn, fought off and frightened away two armed youths who attempted a daylight holdup of the store. Miss Sue Meninger, 7225 Indiana

Supreme Court Refuses to Lift Ward Disbarment

Springfield, Ill., June 5.—The Illinois Supreme court today entered an order upholding the disbarment two years ago of James R. Ward, Chicago lawyer. Ward was attorney for Edward W. Morrison, 83 year old "millionaire millionaire." He was charged with striping the old man of about $4,000,000 as a consideration for signing a $100,000 appeal bond. Ward also was charged with perjury in the United States District court.

JAPAN AND PEACE.

The possibility of an alliance between Germany and Japan has been, according to plausible report, a bugbear of state diplomacy for some time. Henry Walter's dispatch indicates that this bugbear has been by no means disposed of by the defeat of Germany and Austria. Perhaps the persistence of France in demanding drastic terms against Germany is caused in some measure by belief in the early restoration of German strength by means of an arrangement with Russia and Japan. Certainly there are considerations which favor such a regrouping just as there are weaknesses in the present alliance.

Japan is not altogether satisfied with the British alliance. At best it is a matter of the barest expediency. As soon as it does not pay it will be repudiated. Japan understands that she cannot depend upon English force in a serious trial of strength against the United States. Even if a British government and some British clauses might enjoy seeing us humiliated, the only issues or interests over which we should go to war with Japan would be issues involving British policy as well as our own. Canada and Australia can no more afford to accept Japanese infiltration than we can, nor would it suit England to have Japan in undisputed command of the Pacific through the possession of Hawaii. If Japan could reach an understanding with a conservative or military Siberian state, and, farther in the future, make alliance with a partially restored Germany or a central European alliance to act as a counterpoise against England and France, she might feel that her hands were freer in her own ambitious sphere than they could be under any agreement limited by British interests in the Pacific and Latin America.

Indeed, no sane man will dogmatize on the possibilities of the international situation at this time. The world is in flux and what combinations will be made tomorrow in the kaleidoscope of interests, fears, and ambitions, only time can reveal. But this the American people should realize without delay: no nation can afford to rely upon anything but its own strength at such a time. At Washington, Daniels, a follower of Bryan, tells us that we must wait to see what the league of nations decrees before we go on with our naval program. Baker, we fear, will give no sincere support to an adequate armament program. The pressure for reduction in taxes in the reaction from the war spirit will resist adequate measures of defense, and unless the American public clearly surveys the world situation and honestly faces its possibilities, we shall neglect our duty to maintain our strength and presently find ourselves imperiled.

Of all folly nothing could be worse than to rely upon the league of nations as a guaranty of our safety or substitute for our own strong arm. Yet we know that the sentimentalists of the anti-preparedness organizations have learned nothing from our recent experience or from the demonstration of the fallacy of their most conspicuous opinions. They are back in Washington now lobbying against national defense.

Meanwhile the calm voice of Marquis Okuma, elder statesman of Japan, may be heard above the clatter of shrill and shallow pacifism, announcing that, inasmuch as it is problematical how far the stipulations of the league of nations will be effective in maintaining the peace of the world, Japan will remain on the safe side in keeping her military strength in a state of preparedness.

Trust Japan not to lose herself in an emotional dream of millennial peace. She will not put her faith in dreams or dreams, but in her own cold strength. So will every nation that has any stomach to rely on. Shall it be every nation except the United States?

A MUNICIPAL GARAGE.

There was a time when the town square was a quadrangle of hitching posts. Nowadays that same square is filled with automobiles. These things are a recognition of a fixed condition. Chicago does not recognize it.

The city is full of automobiles, evidence that vehicular traffic has undergone a complete change. The streets surge with cars, but there is nowhere to stop. One may halt for a half hour at a curb, but if he is not arrested for overstaying his time there is a good chance his automobile will be stolen.

We need to hang horse thieves. Automobile stealing is carried on with a minimum of hazard. The ease with which thefts are accomplished is due to the careless exposure of expensive possessions. No one would think of leaving a $5,000 diamond on the sidewalk while he went to do a couple of hours' shopping. Yet a $5,000 car is left at the mercy of the first thief that happens along.

The chief reason for this reckless exposure of valuables is that there is no provision for avoiding it. As a city we have never recognized the automobile as a fixed condition, a part of everyday life. We are still in the hitching post stage.

What is needed is a municipal hitching post for the automobile, a great municipal garage in recognition of the fact that an automobilist must come down town and must leave his car in safety. Women who shop in the loop must run chances with droves of scuffling chauffeurs if they want a place to park their cars at the curb or they turn around and go home.

Cars already are provided with parking space in Grant park, but they are exposed to the weather and to thieves. A large shelter, built with an eye to beauty, would pay for its construction and upkeep if operated with a small charge for proper checking.

RATIFY THE SUFFRAGE AMENDMENT.

Now comes woman suffrage before the states for final verdict. It has had a long and tortuous journey and it is a fair conclusion that Susan B. Anthony's prediction of universal suffrage before 1920 will come to pass; and it should.

Suffrage is here, knocking at the gate. It has gathered momentum every year of its travel. Its overwhelming victory in both house and senate is a pretty certain sign of the willingness with which it will be received by the states.

There will be opposition; strange if there were not. There has been objection, will be more, in the south; presumably elsewhere. But suffrage has gathered too much strength to be annoyed by incidental opposition.

It is up to the states. In reaching this point it has beaten its way through worse dangers. There is no good reason why the amendment should be defeated at this stage. Any other time with less advantage gained, well and good. But the advantage is with the women. They have made their fight "stick." It would be buying at the moon to throw obstacles now. The amendment should be ratified without further quibbling.

THE CHICAGO BOND BILLS.

The fundamental bill to increase Chicago's bonding power has been passed by the state senate. The Chicago program, however, involves the passage of a number of other bills which are designed to keep taxation at the present level.

The theory of the proposed legislation is to substitute a different standard of valuation from that which is now used. This cannot be done without changing the tax rate for the various taxing bodies of Illinois.

The Chicago Plan commission has expressed the opinion that all of these bills ought to be passed as a part of the same program. The executive officers feel that otherwise the legislation should be defeated.

In so far as the passage of the fundamental bill means legislative progress we may express our gratification. But there is no advantage in adopting this bill without adopting the remainder of the program.

Canadian soldiers present a solid front to the wild and heedless clamor for overthrow of majority institutions. It is only another evidence of the defense of home and country. The soldiers wear immeasurable lengths on the battlefield; the slacks betray them at home.

Good citizens take arms for their country. Having defended it they return to find it menaced anew; and not by an exterior danger, but by an interior one: inspired by the very men who would not defend it.

The attitude of the Canadian soldiers, while reassuring and deserving of the greatest praise and the gratitude of the government, is, nevertheless, not astonishing. What amazement must have been theirs to find themselves invited to participate in tearing down the very institutions they had only just left off defending with their blood.

The summons to destruction came from those who had least call upon the sympathies of citizen-soldiers. It came from those who were content to defend the thing. The good citizen can be depended upon. The Canadians have demonstrated that they are not merely loyal in spots but that they will go to the front for their country; any front, any time.

THE LAUREL WREATH OF TRUE HEROISM for the patriotic Canadians. They did not pass through the baptism of fire for nothing. Defense of country means to them but one thing: whether it be plunging through shellfire in Flanders or in standing firm for national ideals at home. It is one and the same thing. The good citizen can be depended upon. The Canadians have demonstrated that they are not merely loyal in spots but that they will go to the front for their country; any front, any time.

THAT MYSTERIOUS TREATY. Republicans in congress and out of it have been berated acridly for their "willfulness" in proposing to devote themselves to a study of the treaty and the covenant. This applies particularly to senators who, in investigating any state document, are only carrying out the obligations laid upon them by the voters. Senators are not elected to accept without due deliberation any contract presented them which affects vitally the whole nation.

Senators are not to be blamed for keeping a watchful eye on the country's affairs. They would be poor representatives if not watchful. Why the great and undue haste for "sign" and "approve" and "accept"?

The president came from Paris with a speech in which American soldiers were made to walk "as in a dream," and upon no wretched foundation was it demanded that congress forthwith accept the league of nations covenant without amendment. Dreams, indeed.

The covenant has been, we are informed, extricably bound up in the peace treaty; but yet no copy of the treaty. It is circulated in Berlin at 15 cents the copy; secret in America. Wall street has copies; none in the senate.

The people will approve an investigation of such mysterious carryings on and gladly hear that administration senators are leading the inquiry. The absence of the treaty may not be a vital mishap, but the senators do well to watch their steps, take plenty of time so that what they do is done well.

A PROFESSOR'S QUEER NOTIONS.

(New York Sun.)

Another professor rises to inform the United States as to its national duty. This time it is Mr. Herbert A. Miller, professor of sociology in Oberlin college. At a conference held at the department of the interior in Washington he said that he needs from America an incidence that there be an adequate league of nations to eliminate the injustices of the past in Europe. He will never forget the land of his birth so long as injustice prevails there. He will always be longing to help those of his racial brothers left behind.

America has lent its doors open to unfortunate Europeans on the general theory that they could gain happiness here and, by becoming Americans, benefit this country. Most sensible immigrants proceed to forget, as soon as they can, the evils from which they fled and to devote themselves to the pursuit of happiness. If the immigrant longs to "help those of his racial brothers left behind" he sends to them enough money to pay their passage hither and then finds a job for them.

Any foreign born resident who will not be a good American until he receives assurance that America is going to make assurance a business, in the affairs of Europe ought to be sent back to Europe.

BONO.

Alas, Psyche, once, how long ago,
The cup of joy was mine;
Alas, alas, I shall not know
Again that golden wine;
My head is white as mountain snow,
My heart an empty shrine.

The silent soft of happiness
Are torn beyond repair;
No more they feel the wind's caress,
The urge to lands far;
The helm unto the wave is less
Than seaweed robbing there.

A few days more, and then the last
And bitter cup for me;
The time of earth adventure past,
O Psyche, what for thee?
To what end shall I strive the most?
Beyond what dry end?

BOY, FETCH US A CRYSTAL BALL!

Sir: From the current journals the two following facts are gleaned: (a) The 100% American statement in this country who are pro-Irish and anti-British first, last, and all the time, are solidly against the League of Nations, and insist that America shall prevent its establishment. (b) Those of their number at present overseas are simultaneously insisting that the case of Ireland shall be the first issue settled by the League when it is established. Which recalls the celebrated Irish preacher's temperance sermon: "It's drink that makes ye fire at yer landlords, and begorra, it's drink that makes ye mis' em." What is it that makes the American-Irish overseas demand action by that body which the Irish-Americans at home are swearing shall never be created? Accept, sir, the renewed assurance of my high consideration.

JAMES PONTIFEX.

PROBABLY nobody would deny that George Russell is as good an Irishman as Ryan or Dunne or Walsh. And Russell said it all two or three years ago in this paragraph:

"Custom and the common sense of nations always will be behind the British government in refusing to allow Ireland to set itself up as an independent and hostile country. No nation, no matter how high a political morality it professes, could blame England for refusing Ireland self-government until she could be certain that, when once this was granted, Ireland would be friendly to her."

BESIDE THE SEA OF DREAMS. Across the murmuring sea of dreams There dawns a misty, far and far, Whose tender, echoing cadence seems Like pallid light from a long-dead star. The shifting sand of the gleaming shore Is the dust of dreams I have dreamed before.

From scented dusk and from misty dew,
With silver sheen like a moonbeam fay,
I call my loveless dreams of you
Which rise like wreaths from the tossed sea spray.
I clasp them close to my heart, and then
You seem to be in my arms again.

The golden shore of the sea of dreams
Is a happy place, a happy place,
And the floating song to my fancy seems
Your own dear voice with its love-notes sweet.
Then the tears of joy, like a summer rain,
Cleanse my grateful heart of its loss and pain.

THE WAR AND BLINDNESS.

FROM the standpoint of blindness produced, the great war has not been a serious matter. Prospects estimate that there were but sixty-five American soldiers totally blinded. Harris says that when the records are all in it will be found that not more than 100 will be found to have been blinded. Henderson says that at the end of December the number known to have been blinded was thirty.

Of 41,000 Canadians involved, however, only forty were found to be blind. Of the first 850,000 pensions granted to British veterans, only 1.4 per cent were for injuries to the eyes, and only a very small percentage were granted for total blindness.

The evidence is definite that the number of blinded was small. The same number of men engaged around foundries, rolling mills, and in other trades where sparks and splinters fly would have suffered more eye injury. So far as blindness is concerned, the act of being born is more hazardous than fighting Germans in France.

On the other hand, the war has stimulated the study of blind people. For one thing, it taught us that the blind make the best masseurs. The Japanese learned that fact a long time ago, but information does not travel readily except from east to west, and Siberia has been a great dam which kept the discoveries of the orient from getting into Europe.

Since early in the war the European nations have been training their blind in many ways, but no other vocation has been found to be so satisfactory for them as masseurs. Their sense of touch is keen, and they are not easily physically good. They can value muscle resistance and sense muscle tension. Their infirmity helps them in more ways than one.

There are several massage schools for the blind in Great Britain and continental Europe. One has been established by Peel in Chicago. Probably there are others in this country, or if there are not they will be. For the number of blind by war is small, there will be until we have better care of babies' limbs, and could not be better, in general, trades become willing to wear protecting goggles.

2. None.

THE FRIEND OF THE SOLDIER.

The Friend of the Soldier will cooperate with the war risk insurance bureau of the treasury department, 1807 Bldg., Chicago, and with the committee of the Chicago Bar association on legal assistance to soldiers and sailors, 105 West Monroe street. Address inquiries to Friend of the Soldier, "Chicago Tribune." Answers to as many as possible will be published in this department. To insure a personal reply an addressed and stamped envelope should be inclosed. No attention will be paid to anonymous letters.

VICTORY BUTTORS.

Chicago, June 5.—[Friend of the Soldier.]—Are the Victory buttons out yet? Where can I get mine? Will I have to send for it to Washington, D. C.?

The distribution of these buttons has been greatly delayed. They are expected to be ready any day now. A supply of them will be sent to the soldiers of the 1919 thirty-third street, Chicago, and also to the recruiting stations.

Answers.
Mrs. Mary Ryan.—The 30th ammunition train has been designated for early return. This unit is still attached to the 51st division.

Mrs. William S. Sumner.—The infantry regiments in Siberia are numbered 31, 37, and small detachments of others. They have not been ordered to prepare for return.

Millon Reid, Florida.—Ambulance section arrived complete on the transport 31. Louis, June 5, at New York.

C. F. Marsh, South Haven, Mich.—Bakery company 340 is awaiting final sailing orders, having been ordered to leave France as it is in the last division, army of occupation. It will probably be home in the fall.

Mrs. B. B. B.—The 5th field artillery will be one of the last regiments to leave France as it is in the last division, army of occupation. It will probably be home in the fall.

D. A. S. Drubna, Ill.—The only unit listed which is similar to the one you mention is the 8th mobile ordnance repair shop, which is in the service of supplies attached to the 6th division. Their early return is not expected.

C. D. S. Egin, Ia.—A detachment of the 350th infantry is due on the Wilhelmshafen June 8 at Newport News.

Grace Warren.—The 210th engineer train has been demobilized. It is probable that the soldier was transferred to another unit; we suggest that you ask for the latest report about him of the adjutant general, United States army, Washington, D. C.

Edna Williams.—The boat ferry is due about June 11 at Newport News. It carries a machine ordnance detachment and six central officers.

Francis Sullivan.—Headquarters of 94th field artillery is on the transport Kentuckian, scheduled to arrive in New York about June 7.

H. P. Wiles.—There are two ships of similar names, the Canada and the Canadianus. The Canadianus was docked in Philadelphia May 31.

Mrs. Addie Holcomb, Galesburg, Ill.—Chautauque companies 18 and 19 have been absorbed by the 680th motor transport company. Location is Neuhausen, France. It has not been designated for return.

Pauline Burke.—Voluntary evacuation center 2 is attached to the 3d army in Coblenz, Germany. It has not been released for homecoming.

Sofy Greenberg.—Mobile surgical unit 100 has been demobilized.

M. L. Galagher.—Headquarters of the 8. O. S. is located in Tours, France. It will probably be released in June. The rest of the unit are home. If you are dependent upon the soldier for support he should apply for immediate release to his commanding officer. However, Gen. Pershing just recently made the announcement that as the troops were being sent home so rapidly, to release them individually for special reasons would probably mean that it would delay their coming home.

Long Mine.—The 6024 engineers are still in the army of occupation. It has not been determined when they will come home.

Osceola Frederickson.—Troop K, 10th cavalry, is in Naco, Ariz.

W. D. Burleigh, Pittsburgh, Pa.—Just the last battalion of the 1st gas regiment was sent to Edgewood arsenal, Maryland.

George Kemp.—Base hospital 9 will arrive on the Freedom, which is due in Newport News now. The men are usually kept in a debarkation camp about a week before they are demobilized.

Billy Slack.—The machine gun company of the 35th infantry came in on the last trip of the Canadianus, which docked at Newport News June 5.

Mrs. Thomas Cross.—The 54th engineers service battalion is on the Britannia, which is scheduled to arrive at Newport June 8.

Clyde Beckley.—Company B of the 50th engineers arrived in Philadelphia May 31 on the transport General George.

K. Pierson.—The 603d engineers have not been released from the service of supplies to prepare for return. According to Gen. Pershing's recent announcement they will probably be released with the other units in this work to return in June and July.

V. P. The 1924 field artillery is home. Some newspapers have a "for the last few weeks."

Maria Hoffman.—Company B, 32d engineers, is on the Suquamish, due June 9 at Newport News.

Mollie Surran, Hammond, Ind.—The 7th division of the 7th division. The 7th division is to return within the next few weeks, but this unit has not had specific mention as to when it may be released.

A. Wallendorf.—The 550th engineer company is in Scotland. France. It is not listed with the units mentioned for early return.

Mrs. Paul Fuller.—Medical supply company 3 has not been moved from Liverpool, England. It has not been designated for early return.

W. T. Simpson.—Base hospital 65 is in Brest, but has not been assigned convey.

Mrs. M. E. Walker.—The 97th battalion of the United States guards has been demobilized.

Theo Buch, Milwaukee, Wis.—The 21st engineers has been assigned to early convey and the headquarters of the 1st, 2d, and 3d battalions of this unit are due in Boston about June 9 on the transport President Grant.

PAYING CLAREMONT AVENUE NOT CONTEMPLATED.

Chicago, May 31.—[To the Friend of the People.]—Will Claremont avenue be paved through from Argyle street to Winnetka avenue? If so will it be this summer? We intend to put in a furnace this summer, but if they run Claremont through we won't, as our property is on Winnetka avenue and will have to be bought by the city if the street runs through.

Our records do not show any proceeding pending at this time for paying Claremont avenue from Argyle street to Winnetka avenue. EDWARD J. GLACKIN, Secretary Board of Local Improvements.

FRATERNAL RATE INCREASES.

Keweenaw, Ill., June 2.—[To the Friend of the Insured.]—Is it true that the state insurance departments are compelling the fraternal insurance societies to repudiate their obligations on their older members?

The insurance commissioners have not directed the repudiation of any contract obligations in their efforts to get the fraternal on an adequate rate basis. The Mutual Life and the New York conference law, which would require the repudiation of fraternal to show a steadily increasing proportion of solvency after their efforts to get the fraternal free to work out their salvation in their own way, provided they show the required improvement.

WOMEN PREPARE TO HAVE STATE RATIFY SUFFRAGE

Mrs. Trout and Mrs. McGraw Rush to Springfield from Peoria.

(BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.)

Springfield, Ill., June 5.—[Special.]—The Illinois legislature is scheduled to ratify the woman suffrage amendment to the federal constitution next Tuesday. All the preliminaries have been arranged today by suffrage leaders in the hope that Illinois thereby will be the first of the states to give formal ratification of the amendment submitted to the states by the senate's action yesterday at Washington.

Mrs. Grace Wilbur Trout and Mrs. W. McGraw Rush came to Springfield this morning from Peoria, where they were attending the state convention of the Federation of Women's Clubs. They started for the state capital immediately after the news had arrived of the senate's affirmative action.

After First Place.

Three weeks ago they were here to get machinery ready to throw into gear at the earliest moment, so that Illinois could have the first place in the when states began on the ratification of the full suffrage amendment. United States Senator Medill McCormick is watching and reporting events in Washington. It is his business to send by registered mail and special delivery a certified copy of the congressional resolution that submits the suffrage proposal. This is to be secured by Senator McCormick and started for Springfield as quickly as the signatures of Vice President Marshall and Speaker Gillett had been fixed to the resolution, and it had been lodged with the secretary of state in Washington.

This morning Senator Cornwell of the Lake View district presented a ratification resolution that led to an hour of debate, but which, eventually, was permitted to introduce. The resolution was drawn by Senator Cornwell, he said, this morning after he had read of the Washington action of yesterday.

Women to Rouse Nation.

Washington, D. C., June 5.—[Special.]—Hoping to fulfill Susan B. Anthony's prophecy of "enfranchisement by American women by 1920," suffragists are actively engaged in organizing ratification campaigns in every state. Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt is directing from New York the campaign to be carried out by the national American Woman Suffrage association. Miss Alice Paul, chairman of the National Woman's party, who started on a ratification tour of half a dozen states as soon as the amendment passed the house of representatives and is now in St. Paul, will speak in Illinois, Michigan, and Pennsylvania on her way west, and will thence conduct the campaign from Washington.

Ask Extra Sessions.

Requests that special sessions of the legislature be called at once will be sent tomorrow to the governors of all states where the legislature is not now and will not otherwise be in session this summer, by Miss Maude Younger, legislative chairman of the National Woman's party. The request for a special session was made personally by Miss Younger of the governor of Arizona, who was present at the capitol yesterday when the amendment passed the senate. Certified copies of the wording of the amendment have been sent by the woman's party in response to telegrams received from the legislatures of Illinois, Michigan, and Pennsylvania in

GEN. LAUCHEIMER OF THE MARINES TO BE HERE TOMORROW

Brig. Gen. Charles H. Lauchheimer, Inspector and adjutant, United States marine corps, will arrive in Chicago tomorrow on his way to the Pacific coast to inspect marine corps stations.

He will reach the union depot at 9 a. m. and will depart at 7 p. m.

Gen. Lauchheimer graduated from the United States naval academy and after two years at sea was commissioned a second lieutenant of marines. He was made a brigadier general last August.

order that resolutions for ratification might be introduced without delay.

Ready in Wisconsin.

Madison, Wis., June 5.—[Special.]—That the Wisconsin legislature will ratify the federal suffrage amendment is the prediction made by leading legislators here, who point to the fact that two bills relating to suffrage have already been passed by the legislature at this session by an overwhelming majority.

Wires for U. S. Suffrage Law.

Lansing, Mich., June 5.—Gov. Albert E. Stepper has wired the state department of the Susan B. Anthony amendment to the federal constitution giving women the right to vote in order that the Michigan legislature may ratify at the special session. Legislators have no doubt that Michigan will ratify if the proper papers are received from Washington.

Nebraska Ready to Act.

Lincoln, Neb., June 5.—Gov. Samuel R. McKelvie today said he would give "serious consideration" to the question of calling a special session of the state legislature to act on the woman suffrage amendment. "If at some future date it appears that Nebraska's ratification is needed to give Nebraska women full voting rights at the next presidential election."

No Special Session.

Salt Lake City, Utah, June 5.—Calling a special session of the Utah legislature for the specific purpose of voting upon the ratification of the Susan B. Anthony amendment to the national constitution is very improbable, Gov. Simon Bamberger said today.

Extra Session Improbable.

Hartford, Conn., June 5.—Gov. Marcus H. Holcomb does not expect to call a special session of the Connecticut legislature to act upon the suffrage amendment. In an interview last night the governor said he knew of no emergency which calls for an extra session. The general assembly will not meet in regular session until 1921.

No Extra Missouri Session.

Jefferson City, Mo., June 5.—Gov. Gardner refused today to entertain a proposition to call an extra session of the legislature for the purpose of ratifying the woman suffrage amendment passed by the United States senate yesterday.

HAYS GRATIFIED OVER SENATE'S SUFFRAGE VOTE

Praises G. O. P. Chiefs for Prompt Action on Measure.

Indianapolis, Ind., June 5.—[Special.]—Will H. Hays, Republican national chairman, who is in Indianapolis, expressed himself as greatly pleased with the action of the congress in deciding to submit ratification by the states a proposed amendment to the constitution which will give women national suffrage. He said he hoped that the earliest action of the next session of the Indiana legislature will be the ratification of this amendment.

"The promptness with which the Republican congress has passed the amendment and the overwhelming Republican vote speak for themselves," Mr. Hays said.

Women Have Part.

In regard to the plans of the Republican organization for the participation of women in the party's affairs, Mr. Hays said:

"The Republican women's national executive committee has been appointed to act with the Republican national committee in an effort to devise ways and means to make certain the full participation by the Republican women in the party's affairs."

"I have always insisted that there is but one possible rule for a political party and that is that the rights of the individual membership to participate in the management of the party's affairs must be and remain equally sacred and sacredly equal."

"The Republican women in this country are a part of the party membership. In many states this has long been so. They come into this party actively not as women, but as voters, entitled to participate and participating in so far as the present legal limitations permit just as other voters."

Part of the Party.

Their activity is not supplementary, auxiliary nor secondary at all. They are units in the party membership and where the suffrage for them is now they come in just as men have come in when they have reached the legal voting age. They are not to be separated nor segregated at all, but assimilated and amalgamated, with just that full consideration due every working member of the party in the rights of their full citizenship."

Edmund M. Wasmuth, Republican state chairman, and Frederick Van Nuy, Democratic state chairman, have both expressed themselves as much gratified on account of the action of the congress and as enthusiastically in favor of the federal amendment.

congress may determine to deal. The rates now in force and the financial relations between the government and the companies, and the order of Oct. 2, 1918, prohibiting discrimination because of union affiliation, will continue unless the congress in its wisdom may decide to change them or the emergency is terminated by the proclamation of peace.

"By the action now taken, however, the wire companies assume actual control of operations of their respective property, and are free to formulate and put into effect their own policies untrammelled by government control, which is to continue in any case but a few weeks, and thus will be able to prepare themselves for a complete resumption of the management of their property. It will be necessary for each company to so keep its accounts during the continuance of government control, that its books may be closed on the day government control ends in order that a full and accurate statement may be promptly made when it is called on for same."

Like Waving Red Flag.
The postmaster general's action was like waving a red flag at a bull in its results upon Koenekamp, who had been in Washington several days endeavoring to prevent a strike by obtaining concessions from Burleson.

"Burleson," President Koenekamp said tonight, "when he saw trouble coming through the Commercial Telegraphers' union and the electrical workers, decided to 'pass the buck' back to Newcomb Carlton, the president of the Western Union company and our enemy."

"Mr. Burleson was confronted with the demand of the unions for recognition of the principle of collective bargaining and the right to organize, and when he saw it was that or a strike, rather than make concessions to the unions to avoid this trouble he passed the situation along to Carlton. By turning back operation of the wires, the operators and other employees are no longer employees of the government, and therefore we are not striking against the government."

Go to Mr. Carlton.
"We are told, when we say to the postmaster general that we want the right to organize and the establishment of the principle of collective bargaining, to 'see Mr. Carlton.' And who is Mr. Carlton? Mr. Carlton is the union workers' enemy."

"Mr. Burleson, confronted with recognition of the union as the agent of the government, turned the wires back to Mr. Carlton to operate and give him a free hand to deal with us as he likes. And how will Carlton deal? It was because of the fight between the Western Union Telegraph company and the unions that the wires were thrown into government control, and you can put it down right now that it is because Burleson has thrown operations back upon the Western Union company that this strike is ordered."

"Carlton is the man who said that he would not permit a man who be-

WEDDING SEQUEL TO ROMANCE OF CAMPUS DAYS

Osborne Frisbie and Florence Wittenberg met one moonlit evening on the campus at the University of Wisconsin, when they both were freshmen there. They talked awhile and walked awhile, and when they whispered "good night" there were strange new thrills in their hearts.

along the quiet path.

Mr. Frisbie returned recently from service with the French aviation service, and last night at 7 o'clock they were married at the Fourth Presbyterian church. A little dinner to a few friends at the Blackstone hotel followed and they left for a month's honeymoon in the east. They will live when they return in Cornell, where Mr. Frisbie's father, Chauncey Frisbie, is president of the Cornell Wood Box company.

Miss Wittenberg is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wittenberg of 1146 Fargo avenue.

longed to a union to work for the Western Union Telegraph company. What, then, was there for us to do when we were told by the postmaster general in effect to go and see Carlton with our demands. We had to strike."

The local strike at Atlanta had been on for several days with the prospect of its being extended unless we could get action through Burleson to help our cause. I was in a local office of a press association this afternoon when the flash came in that Burleson had turned back the wires. I only waited until I saw a copy of the official telegram and then I fired a telegram to our third vice president at Atlanta to extend the strike at once to the whole southeastern division, including Louisiana and New Orleans.

May Involve Others.
"As soon as this strike is under way it will be extended all over the Western Union system. As for other telegraph companies, I cannot state positively what the situation will be, but they probably will be involved before this is over."

War Conduct Hampered.
The conduct of the Postal Telegraph company in handling government business at Washington in the trying period of the war was enough to justify the taking over of the telegraph and telephone systems, Assistant Postmaster General Koons told the house interstate commerce committee today.

Mr. Koons declared that if other wire companies had adopted the same policy as the Postal it would have strangled the government in the conduct of the war.

Information upon which the charges were based, he said, was obtained by inspectors from the records of the company. There was no evidence, however, to show intentional delay by the Postal, he said.

The belief that the postoffice department tonight was that the strike would not involve enough men to seriously handicap service. President Koenekamp refused to estimate the number of operators whom he expected to respond to the strike order.

No Change at Atlanta.
Atlanta, Ga., June 5.—Extension of the strike here of telegraph and telephone employees belonging to the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America to all members of the union employed by the Western Union Telegraph company in the ten southeastern states, had no effect on the local situation and company officials said tonight that the order for the walkout had had no noticeable effect on telephone and telegraph service throughout this section of the country.

Reports from Charleston, W. Va., and Louisville, Ky., were that practically none of the operators there are union men, hence there will be no strike.

Carlton Not Alarmed.
New York, June 5.—Newcomb Carlton, president of the Western Union Telegraph company, declared tonight that the strike of Western Union employees in ten states, ordered tonight by S. J. Koenekamp, president of the Commercial Telegraphers' union, would have virtually no effect on the Western Union.

"Of more than 40,000 Western Union employees eligible for membership in the Commercial Telegraphers' union," he said, "only about 700 are members of the organization. In the territory covered by Mr. Koenekamp's order, less than 400 of our employees are members of that union."

UNCLE SAM USES LOVE NOTE BAIT TO NET CAPTAIN

Officer Who Disappeared with $50,000 Camp
Fund Captured.

The distinct mistake landed Capt. J. Dawson, U. S. A., aged 24, in the country-wide net laid by war department agents of Chicago yesterday.

The first was desertion from Camp Holbrook, Leon Springs, Tex., with mess and camp funds which officers say totaled $50,000. The second lay in his leaving forwarding addresses all along the line of his forced travel. Dawson is a letter writing sweetheart in San Antonio.

War department agents have been on the track of the elusive captain ever since Dec. 16, when an urgent G. O. P. call went out from authority in Leon Springs announcing that a youthful personnel adjutant of the camp and former instructor in three of its training camps had absconded with practically all of the mess funds and other available cash about the camp.

Two weeks ago agents picked up the camp trail in Savannah, Ill., where, under the name of "Thomas J. Miller," he had left a postoffice forwarding address to the general delivery window, Chicago. From here he was traced to Shullsburg, Wis., and Freeport, Ill., the letters from his sweetest being a wide trail. All the authorities had to do was to wait for the inevitable love letter to arrive and capture the man who called himself "Tom."

The captain was brought to central headquarters yesterday, admitted his identity, although he long disclaimed the uniform, but refused to reveal his theft of the missing funds. Small Towns Safe.

"Should have known better than to go to the big towns," he remarked sadly during the interview. "Small towns are safe, letters and dangerous, too."

He will be sent under guard today to Fort Sam Houston for court martial. His arrival here he has been told is the Chicago avenue police station.

Dawson entered the service in 1912 as private in regular army infantry. Based in Panama and on the Mexican border, and was commissioned a captain of infantry in May, 1917, and assigned as instructor in the Texas A. C. later transferring to the post adjutant in Camp Holbrook.

POSTMAN BRINGS PETAIN CITATION TO CHICAGO MAJOR

It was all very vivid again for Thomas R. Gowenlock, 3117 Kimbark avenue, yesterday.

For the postman brought him citation 14,041, issued by Marshal Petain of the French army.

As a major, Gowenlock won the Croix de Guerre with palm, the honor which has just reached him after his return. March 19, as the vicissitudes of front lines in France were fading.

"Displayed great military knowledge," says the citation regarding Maj. Gowenlock's duties as intelligence officer. "Often volunteered to instruct and lead patrols; worked without thought of self to obtain interesting military information. Contributed greatly to the success of the division."

Maj. Gowenlock served with the First division during the American advance. Previous to his entry into the Fort Sheridan training camp he was department manager for H. W. Kastor & Sons, advertising agency.

With an hour interest in the capture of a valuable aid in whitening and helping preserve the tooth-enamel.

Everyone knows that peroxide of hydrogen is a valuable aid in whitening and helping preserve the tooth-enamel.

Everyone knows that lime-water is valuable as a preventive of acid-stomach and acid-mouth conditions.

Everyone knows that OXYGEN is the harmless and beneficial gas in Nature, and that without oxygen in the air we would die.

But everyone does not know that these three valuable substances are a part of McK & R Calox Tooth Powder. In contact with water or the mouth fluids McK & R Calox forms fresh, active peroxide of hydrogen, in just sufficient quantities to gradually whiten the teeth. This peroxide, in contact with decaying matter, releases pure, refreshing oxygen gas. Oxygen, which is so beneficial to the teeth and so refreshing to human beings, is a sure finish to the dangerous germs of tooth decay.

Part of McK & R Calox Tooth Powder turns to lime-water in the mouth and counteracts local acid conditions which cause much of tooth-decline.

McK & R Calox tastes better than any dentifrice you ever tried—no "druggish" flavor. Being a powder it "takes hold" in a pleasing way. Try it for ten days and watch your teeth whiten. Twice a year at your dentist and twice a day with McK & R Calox spells safety.

J. A. HAWKINSON WILL HEAD NEW PACKING FIRM

Details of $165,000,000
Merger to Be Told on Monday.

Selection of John A. Hawkins, vice president of Wilson & Co., as president of the new $165,000,000 packing company, formed by the merger of eight independent concerns, was announced yesterday.

JOHN A. HAWKINSON

At the same time it was declared all the details of the merger, which is being financed by Imbrie & Co. of New York, would be made public next Monday, when Mr. Hawkins arrives in New York to assume his new duties. He has resigned from the Wilson organization.

An unusual feature will be that the plans included in the new organization will come in with the present owners retaining operating and financial interests, which is a departure from the general plan of associating a number of smaller concerns into one big company.

Statement on Monday.

During the war Mr. Hawkins was chairman of the cotton seed oil division of the United States food administration and served in other government activities. He would not give out a statement of the plan of organization yesterday, but said it would be issued probably Monday.

F. S. Snyder, head of the meat division and a member of the executive committee of the United States food administration, will be an executive of the new company. He is now a member of the firm of Gatchelder & Snyder, Boston.

Mr. Hawkins, who has been chosen by the financial interests behind the new company as its head, began his business career as a messenger boy in "the yards" at $5 a week, when it was necessary for him to work from 5

TWO TRANSPORTS BRING 1,082 TROOPS FROM OVER OCEAN

NEW YORK, June 5.—(Special.)—Two transports, the Chicago and Norfolk, brought home a total of 1,082 overseas troops today. An abstract of the personnel on each follows:

CHICAGO.—One officer and 74 men of casual company, 55th field artillery replacement regiment, scattered; 15 officers and 329 men of Minnesota, Iowa, New York, Virginia, Texas, Pennsylvania, Ohio, and scattered casual companies; 8 officers and 486 men of special casual companies discharged; 1 officer and 48 men of 14th camp hospital, scattered; 15 officers of 30th supply train detachment, scattered; 15 officers of 30th infantry detachment, scattered; 10 officers of 810th infantry detachment, scattered; 8 officers of 30th sanitary train detachment, scattered; 48 casual officers; 1 army field clerk and 2 civilian casals; 1 man of ordnance detachment for duty. Total on board, 1,060.

NORFOLK.—One officer and 18 men of 55th special casual company, discharged; 1 officer and 2 men of medical detachment for duty. Total on board, 22.

o'clock in the morning until late at night. He gradually worked up through various responsible positions.

Packer for Thirty Years.

He was accepted by the food administration as an authority on matters pertaining to the meat industry.

Altogether, Mr. Hawkins has been in the packing business more than thirty years, twenty of which were put in as an employee of Swift & Co. He is not yet 50 years old. Pending final announcement of his plans, he will have a temporary office with Imbrie & Co., 208 South La Salle street.

MORE STRIKERS IN PARIS, BUT SUBWAYS RUN

PARIS, June 5.—There was a further increase in the number of strikers in the Paris district today when the laundry workers' union declared a strike in Paris and the suburbs. Transit facilities, however, were improved over yesterday and more subway trains were running. The subway stations are still guarded by soldiers. M. Collard, the minister of labor, has summoned to Paris the directors of the mines in the Pas de Calais and delegates of the miners for a joint meeting.

BRITONS GIVE LUNCHEON FOR CREW OF NC-4

LONDON, June 5.—Lieutenant Commander Albert C. Read and his crew of the American seaplane NC-4, which made the successful trans-Atlantic flight, as well as Commander J. H. Towers and others who handled the NC planes, were guests today at a luncheon given by Maj. Gen. Seely, undersecretary for air, in the house of commons.

The luncheon was given for the purpose of discussing the future of British aviation. The Prince of Wales, Lord Birkenhead, lord high chancellor; James W. Lowther, speaker of the house of commons; the Earl of Reading, former ambassador to the United States; Winston Spencer Churchill, secretary for war, and Field Marshal Sir Douglas Haig were present.

Gen. Seely assured Lieut. Commander Read that "there is no trace of envy on our part for your splendid performance, and we recognize that the Americans brilliantly succeeded where we gloriously failed."

Lieut. Commander Read in responding said: "The British people are good winners, but they are wonderful losers. I am glad to see Commander Grieve here, and am sure Hawker would be here but for indisposition resulting from the great reception he has had. Our success was due to careful planning and preparations made. Flying across was the easiest part of the proposition."

350 Flee $50,000 Fire; Three Buildings Burn

Damage amounting to $50,000 was done to the Armstrong plant and Yonah works, 2502 South Paulina street, when fire yesterday destroyed three story brick buildings and their contents. A fourth building, the office, was damaged by smoke and water. Three hundred and fifty employees, thirty-five of them girls, were forced to flee the buildings.

Gets Six Months' Term for Assault with Auto

Ted Allen, 5438 South State street, was sentenced to six months' work on the farm at the Oak Forest infirmary by Judge John Steik in the Automobile court yesterday on a charge of assault with an automobile. Allen was arrested April 22 after his machine had crashed into an automobile driven by George W. Cameron, 658 East Fifth street.

COLVER WARNS GROCERS AGAINST PACKERS' TRUST

Cincinnati, O., June 5.—William B. Colver, chairman of the federal trade commission, in speaking before the National Wholesale Grocers' association convention here today advocated that the great meat packers of the country be limited to the field of meat packing and to the manufacture of packing-house byproducts.

"The commission has found that a meat trust exists," said Mr. Colver. "But it has found more than that. It finds that these great concerns are rapidly extending their dominion and control over the whole food supply of the nation."

"I believe it is only a matter of time, unless present tendencies are stopped, when these five concerns, or perhaps one or two of them which may openly or secretly absorb the others, will absolutely dictate to the people of this country what they shall eat and what they shall pay for what they eat."

Arrested for Argument, They Forget the Topic

The discussion waxed fast and furious. Peter Laube, 1810 Indiana avenue, and Alexander McDonald, 1608 Indiana avenue, maintained that there was, while Edward Langston, 1608 Indiana avenue, maintained that there was not. Langston picked up a shoe-maker's stand and struck the other two. All three were arrested.

"What were you arguing about?" asked Detective Sergeant Coleman and Bernaschi.
Langston scratched his head.
"Jigged if I know," he admitted.

Pure
Turkish
Tobacco

Listen, folks—

Every manufacturer of cigarettes admits that pure Turkish is the Mildest and Best tobacco for cigarettes.

Why, then, is any other kind of tobacco ever used? Only to cheapen the cost.

That's why "bundle" cigarettes are so plentiful in Quantity—but so "different" in Quality!

Good music dealers cheerfully recommend and sell Q·R·S Player Rolls, in spite of the fact that their profit is smaller than some makes offer.

They do this simply because they know that Q·R·S quality insures the kind of results that make the player owner appreciate the true value of his investment.

Of the two hundred music dealers in Chicago, all but two sell Q·R·S Player Rolls.

THOUSANDS OF JOBS A-BEGGING HERE FOR TAKING

S. List and "Tribune" Ads Answer to Gloom of Prof. Moulton.

BY OSCAR E. HEWITT.

"The statement that 'there is a net shortage of 20,000 jobs, good, bad, or indifferent' in Chicago means little or nothing—probably the latter," said L. Crawford, head of the federal employment service in Illinois, yesterday. "So Prof. Harold Moulton is printing that sort of material in the weekly of the Association of Commerce, is he?"

The professor quotes from a report of the labor bureau. The last report, May 14, says regarding Chicago: "No surplus of skilled labor, including the unskilled trades," but that is not in the professor's article for Commerce.

Proportion Is Small.

"Twenty thousand is not very many in Chicago," continued Mr. Crawford. "When were there fewer since Chicago was grown to 2,000,000 population? There are probably 20,000 in Chicago who are shiftless. They don't want steady work at a regular job. How many of them do you suppose there are in Chicago?"

A mayor's committee in 1914, working to get a "practical plan for reducing destitution and unemployment," said on this point:

"Based upon the United States census bureau report on occupations in Chicago in 1910, it is estimated the total number of persons 10 years of age and over engaged in gainful occupations in 1914 in Chicago was as follows:

Male ..... 648,822
Female ..... 263,353

Total ..... 912,175

"But if there are more persons than jobs to fill them, tell me where they are, continued Crawford. 'I'm looking for them. There are several thousand jobs going begging.'"

1335 Jobs a-Begging.

He threw across the desk the bureau's list of "positions open." The list contained 1,335 jobs.

"Every one of those jobs was open for begging for a taker when we opened business today. That was an hour ago, and perhaps a few jobs have been taken in that time, but in that time period we probably have had more calls for help than we have been able to care for."

"There is a large amount of work in Chicago. One of the best indications of the columns of want ads in our own paper, THE TRIBUNE. Don't you ever look at the ads? When employers pay money to advertise for jobs, they have some jobs they want filled out. There is no doubt about it. Just check up in your own paper for the want advertisements."

Ask Bear Out Crawford. The suggestion was taken: W. E. McWhirter is head of the classified advertising department of THE TRIBUNE. Asked what he thought of Prof.

Moulton's observation on local unemployment he replied: "Not much. THE TRIBUNE carried more want ads this morning than on any previous day in its history," he went on. "During the war the demand for all sorts of employees was the greatest ever known, yet we are running more help wanted ads now."

"Here is one big reason: Chicago was not a war industry city. We obtained comparatively few of the war contracts as contrasted with eastern cities. Our readjustment is easier and should be quicker."

This same thought was expressed by Mr. Crawford and, several months ago, by Prof. Harold Moulton. "There may be a surplus of the most ordinary labor, but in the semi-skilled and skilled labor, both indoors and outdoors, employers are unable to get all they need as quickly as they desire them."

Business Swings Back.

"This indicates to me that business has swung back harder and farther since the armistice was signed than it was going when the war was on. Prof. Moulton's own statement shows we are within 10 per cent of the war peak for the entire country, yet he takes a gloomy view of the present and a worse view of the future."

Getting back to employment proper, THE TRIBUNE yesterday printed 1,201 help wanted advertisements, a total of 11,221 agate lines. In 1918 the demand for help was unusually high and a year ago today THE TRIBUNE printed 918 ads in 7,331 lines.

Compare yesterday's barometer of employment with the five high spots of last year when the war was on, as follows:

No. of No. of Date. Ads. Lines.
Oct. 3 ..... 890 9,202
Oct. 19 ..... 935 9,223
Oct. 16 ..... 886 9,116
Oct. 12 ..... 929 9,156
Nov. 5 ..... 830 8,763

How the Years Stack Up.

Another comparative cross section of the demand for help is supplied by THE TRIBUNE in the number of help wanted ads printed in the first five months of this and last year. They follow:

Month. 1918. 1919.
January ..... 15,095 24,357
February ..... 15,098 21,266
March ..... 25,536 26,301
April ..... 26,435 28,124
May ..... 29,924 30,034

A Matter of Figures. Prof. Moulton in his article, which will be published today, calls attention to a government statement that 750,453 persons were employed in 1,414 business establishments the day the armistice was signed, and that in these same industries only 658,820 were employed May 17.

After discussing the matter, he adds that "in any event the figures denote a situation that affords little opportunity for complacency." He says the decrease was $2,410, or 9.8 per cent. Subtracting the two numbers gives a decrease of 71,633 instead of $2,410. The professor's percentage is correct, but he made an error in copying the figures. It also so happens that no Chicago firm of the 1,414 in the list is represented. These firms are located in only eighteen states and in twenty-seven cities.

R. E. CANTWELL'S NAME BOBS UP IN DOMAK INQUIRY

Alderman Asks for Light on the Attorney's Activities.

The name of Attorney Robert E. Cantwell was mentioned yesterday before the city council committee on police as a man who frequently handles the legal matters of crooks.

Ald. T. F. Byrne, a member of the committee, suggested the committee inquire into Mr. Cantwell's activities.

The matter came about when it was brought out Mr. Cantwell was attorney for Barney Domak, an alleged pick-pocket, for whom Lieut. John Martin is alleged to have asked a continuance when Domak's case was called before Municipal Judge Wells.

Lieut. Martin was not present. He was assigned to the reception of the third detachment of the Prairie division, so he and Chief Garrity were not available.

Detective Sergeants M. J. Cusack and Frank Smith told of the arrest of Domak. They said he had been arrested by them the morning after he had been dismissed on a charge of pocket picking.

"I was ill the day Domak's case was called," said Smith.

Harry Olson, chief justice of the Municipal court, who was present at the committee's session, declared the way to drive out criminals was to proceed against lawyers who appear for habitual crooks.

"To begin with, if we can drive out the lawyers who seek to aid habitual crooks, we will have gotten at the foundation of the whole matter," said Judge Olson.

REFUSE BOND FOR MRS. STRANG ON MURDER CHARGE

Tale of Girl Detective Who Shared Cell Revealed.

Bond was refused Mrs. Grace Strang when she was arraigned in Waukegan yesterday charged with the murder of her husband, Herbert Strang, who died at the residence in Highland Park the night of May 15 of strychnine poisoning.

State's Attorney James G. Welch announced that a special grand jury would be convened Tuesday and asked formally to indict Mrs. Strang and that she would be rearrested next Thursday morning.

Girl Detective's Story.
The name of the girl detective, to whom Mrs. Strang is said to have shared a single cell, was revealed as Miss Iana Hay, 22 years old. She is said to have represented to Mrs. Strang that she was the wife of an army captain, on duty in France; that she had loved and eloped, and that the captain's absence, with a wealthy merchant, whose wife had died in mysterious circumstances.

Miss Hay pretended to have been arrested, suspected of slaying her.

Convincing Tale.
So convincing was she, according to the prosecutor, that Mrs. Strang's brother, William G. Ives, offered to assist her by employing Ralph J. Dady, his sister's counsel, to defend her. Both Mr. Ives and Mr. Dady denied that that was so.

Mr. Welch declined to reveal what Miss Hay's testimony at the trial would be.

Pierre, S. D., June 5.—The "South Dakota direct legislation organization" today announced that it had filed with the secretary of state a referendum petition bearing 16,000 signatures and calling for a vote in November, 1920, on the 1919 "bone dry" prohibition law. The move was directed especially against the search and seizure portion of the new law.

Washington, D. C., June 5.—Delegates attending the annual convention of the Anti-Saloon League of America were promised today by Senator Shepard of Texas that sale of any beverages containing even a trace of alcohol would be prohibited by laws now being framed for enforcement of nation-wide prohibition.

"We are not 2.75 per cent Americans," said Senator Shepard, who made a plea "not only for saloonless America but for a saloonless world."

Ben H. Spence, a Canadian temperance worker, also urged a world-wide prohibition fight, declaring that by extending the campaign the victors won at home could best be held.

Prophesying that the temperance movement is due for a reaction, Mr. Spence warned the convention that "some of the most tremendous battles are ahead."

The temperance people today, he said, need more humility of spirit than they are accustomed to show.

"Prohibition won and is now at the peace table," said Mr. Spence. "We must not let in wine or beer. The bear cry is a brewer's proposition and the campaign for a little more kick is for the purpose of making more money by selling more beer."

Representatives of labor organizations in Indiana, Minnesota, and Colorado appealed to congress for modification of the law to permit the sale of light wines and beer.

While United States District Attorney Charles F. Clyne pushed his investigation of the bond mixup involving United States Commissioner Mark A. Foote, yesterday, the latter continued to absent himself from his offices in the Federal building.

Two other figures in the situation, which federal officials declare may result in the dismissal of Commissioner Foote and the indictment of a number of bondsmen, appeared before the district attorney.

One was bondsmen Ray O'Keefe, who engineered the deal by which Harry Patrick, accused of opium smuggling, was released on an improper bond accepted by Foote, a week ago. O'Keefe promised to have Patrick, who left for Kansas City when freed, back in Chicago today. If the latter appears he will be held on three charges similar to the first.

The other was Mrs. Anna B. Wendell of 5444 Michigan avenue, who signed the bond.

movement is due for a reaction, Mr. Spence warned the convention that "some of the most tremendous battles are ahead."

The temperance people today, he said, need more humility of spirit than they are accustomed to show.

"Prohibition won and is now at the peace table," said Mr. Spence. "We must not let in wine or beer. The bear cry is a brewer's proposition and the campaign for a little more kick is for the purpose of making more money by selling more beer."

Representatives of labor organizations in Indiana, Minnesota, and Colorado appealed to congress for modification of the law to permit the sale of light wines and beer.

While United States District Attorney Charles F. Clyne pushed his investigation of the bond mixup involving United States Commissioner Mark A. Foote, yesterday, the latter continued to absent himself from his offices in the Federal building.

Two other figures in the situation, which federal officials declare may result in the dismissal of Commissioner Foote and the indictment of a number of bondsmen, appeared before the district attorney.

One was bondsmen Ray O'Keefe, who engineered the deal by which Harry Patrick, accused of opium smuggling, was released on an improper bond accepted by Foote, a week ago. O'Keefe promised to have Patrick, who left for Kansas City when freed, back in Chicago today. If the latter appears he will be held on three charges similar to the first.

The other was Mrs. Anna B. Wendell of 5444 Michigan avenue, who signed the bond.

Washington, D. C., June 5.—Delegates attending the annual convention of the Anti-Saloon League of America were promised today by Senator Shepard of Texas that sale of any beverages containing even a trace of alcohol would be prohibited by laws now being framed for enforcement of nation-wide prohibition.

"We are not 2.75 per cent Americans," said Senator Shepard, who made a plea "not only for saloonless America but for a saloonless world."

Ben H. Spence, a Canadian temperance worker, also urged a world-wide prohibition fight, declaring that by extending the campaign the victors won at home could best be held.

Modest Men May Speak the Truth About Themselves—Why Not Newspapers?

DURING May 1919 the Chicago Evening American gained  $66\frac{1}{10}$  per cent in "total" display advertising, as compared with May 1918. Quite a substantial gain— $66\frac{1}{10}$  per cent—wouldn't you say?

The Chicago evening newspaper making the next best showing gained  $39\frac{5}{10}$  per cent. Then follow the other two evening newspapers with  $31\frac{8}{10}$  per cent and  $31\frac{1}{10}$  per cent respectively—all "total" display advertising, remember.

On "local" display advertising the Chicago Evening American's relative position, in its evening newspaper field, is still more favorable. During May 1919 it gained  $58\frac{5}{10}$  per cent, while the evening newspaper making the next best percentage of gain increased only  $24\frac{6}{10}$  per cent and the other two newspapers only  $18\frac{3}{10}$  per cent and 15 per cent respectively.

The Chicago Evening American's percentage of growth is more than double that of one evening newspaper and nearly four times greater than that of another.

State Street Department Store advertising buyers increased their purchases of Chicago Evening American advertising space during May 1919 by 24,334 lines.

They increased their lineage in one other evening newspaper 16,255 lines, in another 12,769 lines and decreased their purchases in the remaining evening newspaper 2,664 lines.

Naturally, the Chicago Evening American is glad to make note of its splendid May record. What newspaper would not be proud to register a growth in "total" display lineage equal to  $66\frac{1}{10}$  per cent and  $58\frac{5}{10}$  per cent in "local" display advertising?

EDDIE COLLINS' HOMER WITH BASES FULL BEATS YANKS, 5-1

CIRCUIT CLOUT GIVES CICOTTE CINCH VICTORY

Sox Captain, Ex-Marine, Cheered On by Gang of Devil Dogs.

BY JAMES CRUSINBERRY.
New York, June 5.—[Special.]—It was a combat between marines and navy today when the White Sox met the Yankees in the first of the series, or at least one ex-marine, Eddie Collins, was battling one ex-navy man, Ernie Shore. The ex-marine won by knocking a home run in the eighth inning with the bases filled and the score tied, 1 to 1. Consequently the White Sox gained an official victory over the Yankees, 5 to 1.

Eddie turned the trick in front of a squad of marines and an entire rifle band, which was sent to the Polo grounds in his honor. The band and the squad of fighters gave an exhibition drill on the field before the game, then seated themselves behind the Sox bench and rooted for Chicago.

Yanks Score at Start.
The Yankees knocked in one run on Ernie Shore in the first inning, and the Sox knocked one around off him in the second, tying the count. Then it was a battle clear up to the eighth, with the Sox doing a bit more threatening than their rivals and showing a bit better defense. In the eighth this is what happened:

Ray Schalk, first up, slugged a liner at Shore's head. Shore ducked and the ball went to center field for a single. Cicotte dumped a bunt down third base way. In the previous inning Frank Baker had seen Buck Weaver come in on such a bunt and force a runner at second. So Baker tried to execute the same play, but he was too slow and both Sox runners were safe.

Leibold decided to shove them along with another bunt, so he dumped one down third base way, and Baker rushed in, grabbed the ball, and fired to first base. His arm was wide and pulled Pipp off the bag, and three men were on with no out.

Eddie Shows Marine Spirit.
In this alluring situation Buck Weaver popped up on the first pitched ball. Then came E. Collins, with the machine gunning the kind of a cheer they must have given at Chateau Thierry when they pulled the hit and gun play on the Germans.

Eddie seemed to have that marine spirit, for he hit a line drive to right field. Young Mr. Vick, playing out there, rushed in and attempted a diving catch, which failed. He didn't even get close enough to touch the ball and it skipped past him and went bounding and hopping away to the far distance fence in right center, with Ping Bode chasing. Before Ping caught up with the ball Mr. E. Collins was around third base and came home pulled up to a walk. Schalk, Cicotte, and Leibold all had crossed ahead of him.

After that there was nothing to the ball game. The machine base drummed beat on the old drum so that it sounded like a machine gun and all the marines were very happy.

Gotham Fans Worried Now.
There were seven base hits on each side, but that one pulled by Eddie Collins, ex-marine, was worth four times as much as all seven of those pulled by the Yankees.

Tonight the fans of Broadway are speculating on what chance the Giant will have against this White Sox bunch next fall. They haven't forgotten 1917.

MINE EXPLOSION COSTS 83 LIVES; 50 ARE INJURED

Powder Car Blows Up in Train Taking Men
Into Colliery.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., June 5.—Eighty-three men dead and fifty others buried and maimed, many of whom probably will die, is the toll of a disaster in the Baltimore tunnel of the Delaware and Hudson Coal company in the east end section of this city early today. Seven kegs of black powder, 300 pounds in all, were detonated and the dead and the maimed were literally roasted by the superheated gas flames following the explosion.

The tragedy occurred while the men were on their way to work this morning. Owing to their working places being two miles from the mouth of the tunnel, the men were making the trip in a train of fourteen mine cars drawn by an electric motor, the powder being carried in two cars in the middle of the train.

Men Enveloped in Flames.
When the train had penetrated the tunnel about 200 feet there was a shower of sparks and a terrific blast. A great sheet of flame, drawn by the air current, enveloped the helpless men, who were huddled closely together in the cars with no chance to escape. Owing to the ventilating system the smoke and flames were drawn inward and the first intimation of the disaster to those on the surface was the shrieks of anguish of the injured.

Rescue corps were at once formed and the dead and injured were rapidly brought to the surface, where the living were given first aid treatment by physicians and then rushed to hospitals in ambulances and vehicles of all sorts, even the fire apparatus being used in the emergency.

Victims Piled in Heaps.
When the rescuers first entered the tunnel they found the dead and dying piled in heaps in the cars and along the tunnels. Bodies of the dead were burned to a crisp. Of the dead, sixty-nine were found in the tunnel and fourteen others succumbed to their injuries at the hospitals. Only forty-nine have been identified.

August Buddie, one of the survivors, said the overhead trolley wire sagged and, touching a steel powder keg, formed a short circuit and exploded the powder. Assistant General Manager Buchanan of the coal company, after investigating at the scene of the disaster, gave it as his opinion that a steel bar or drill carried by one of the men came in contact with the overhead wire, forming a short circuit.

According to the company's figures, 143 men and boys were being carried by the train.

Missouri Jury Convicts Woman of Killing Wife

Emmence, Mo., June 5.—Mrs. Carrie Hoffman of O'Neill, Neb., charged with the murder of Mrs. Pearl Walton on the Walton farm near Teriata in January, was found guilty by a jury here today and sentenced to ten years in the penitentiary.

Mrs. Hoffman, who says she is the common law wife of Frank Walton, husband of the murdered woman, made a plea of self-defense.

CHICAGO IS TOLD OF CHANCES FOR EXPORT TRADE

Japanese Consul, Mexican Envoy, and Icelandic Offer Them.

Chicagoans who criticize the "open door" policy of China were urged yesterday by Saburo Kurusu, Japanese consul, to open their own doors and get their proper share of foreign trade. Mr. Kurusu was the guest of honor at a luncheon given by the Association of Commerce at the Union League club, as he is soon to return to Japan on a leave of absence.

"It is doubtful whether Chicago has been taking proper advantage of its great opportunities to win foreign trade," said Mr. Kurusu. "The figures for Chicago's exports are far below what they ought to be. The usual plan in my country is to send all Japanese goods direct to New York."

"Chicago's potentialities as an export center are great; it now remains to be seen what you will do. With your new Mississippi valley plans, there is evidence that Chicago is awakening. No one can doubt but your future in foreign trade will be wonderfully successful if the movement is carried on."

Mexican Trade Envoy Here.
Sealtiel L. Alariste, representing the department of industry, commerce, and labor of Mexico, opened an office yesterday in the Merchants Loan and Trust building for the purpose of promoting closer commercial relations between Mexico and the United States.

"It will be my purpose to obtain information for business men of the United States regarding opportunities in Mexico," said Mr. Alariste, "and also to get facts for the benefit of my own countrymen who may wish to develop commercial relations with the producers of this nation. Similar offices have been opened in a number of cities. This movement shows the friendly spirit of the government of Mexico and the desire to cooperate with American commercial interests. My work here will be entirely along commercial lines."

Iceland Offers Chances.
Exporters of the Chicago district were advised yesterday by Lynn W. Meekins, district office manager of the United States bureau of foreign and domestic service, to study possibilities of business with Iceland.

"I have received word from Iceland," said Mr. Meekins, "that samples of all kinds of American made goods are wanted there. As Iceland is a colony of Denmark, most of its imports formerly consisted of Danish goods. But since the beginning of the war merchants in Iceland have made direct connections with the producing countries. Instead of taking all goods via Copenhagen, Iceland has a trade of about $4,000,000 with the United States, and sends us large amounts of wool. German and English competition probably will be severe, and the American manufacturer who wants part of this business should act at once."

ALDERMEN VOTE FOR SMOKING ON "L" TRAINS

Advocates of smoking on the transportation lines won a partial victory yesterday when the council public health committee, over the protests of Health Commissioner John Dill Robertson, voted to recommend to the council that smoking privileges be resumed on the elevated lines.

Attorney Henry S. Blum, representing the local tobacco interests, led the fight of the smoke advocates. "It is an infringement on the privileges of the citizen to forbid him from smoking during his hour's or half-hour's ride home," he said. He pointed out that the health edict of Commissioner Robertson banning smoking on the cars was put into effect during the "flu" epidemic of last fall, and that that health emergency has now passed.

Silk Frocks For Summer Chosen by Women and Misses

There's a certain type of silk frock all women and misses never overlook in assembling a summer wardrobe.

It's the mode at once charming enough for informal occasions and practical enough for street wear. And these are the frocks featured here.

For Women—These Frocks At $22.50 and $37.50

Even for as little as $22.50 women may choose a taffeta silk frock with embroidered panels on the skirt.

And at $37.50 Georgette crepe in panels put together with fagotting is combined with taffeta to make a charming frock. To be had in navy blue, black and taupe.

Misses' Frocks of Georgette Crepe, $47.50

White Georgette crepe dotted in blue or black makes a girlishly simple frock with just a wide ribbon sash for trimming. From $37.50 to $65 are frocks of printed Georgette crepes, foulards and taffetas in many new summer styles.

Always at $2.75 to $20—tub frocks are arriving in newly created styles.

Fourth Floor, North, South and East.

Ribbon and Colorful Straws Make The Hats of Midsummer

One cannot call them just "sports" hats and do them full justice. For though they are ideal for the many outdoor pastime occasions of summer, they can serve with equal charm and appropriateness with the daintiest of afternoon tub frocks.

Prices Range from $7.50 to $15.

Some hats are entirely of ribbon with just facings of straw. Others are of flexible straws in beautiful tones with the crowns entirely covered with glistening satin ribbons.

Very odd and unusual are hats of straw brim crocheted into transparent brims and airy crowns. Still others, very striking, are all black with white wool embroidery.

Shapes Are Both Large and Small So That All Preferences Can Be Met.

Fifth Floor, South.

Girls' Summer Tub Frocks New for June's Last School Days

They're certain to strike a deep responsive chord in the heart of little miss-six-to-sixteen with their fresh, new charm.

And these days, with the many delightful occasions that mark the closing time for schools, every little lass wants to be plentifully supplied with just this sort of frock. Four charming styles are featured.

At $8.75 and $10.75 Novel Cotton Crepe Frocks

At $8.75—The frock sketched at the extreme right. A bolero-like bodice buttons over a bit of plain white crepe and is itself outlined with vividly toned embroidery. Sizes 6, 8 and 10 years.

At $10.75—The frock sketched at the left. Striped or checked cotton crepe is combined with plain colored crepe of a cream tone in an unusual and highly effective way. Sizes 6, 8 and 10 years.

At $13.75 Voile Frocks and at $15 Gingham Frocks

At $13.75—The voile frock sketched at the right center is printed in delicate orchid, pink and blue. A pleated organdie vest is applied unexpectedly on the outside and folds under a black silk sash. 12-, 14- and 16-year sizes.

At $15—The gingham frock sketched at the left center seems to have borrowed prim little bouquets from some Colonial quilt to fasten a slim sash. In lavender, blue, pink. To be had in sizes 12, 14 and 16 years.

Chambray and Gingham Frocks in Sizes 6 to 12 Years, in Many Smart Styles, Specially Priced $2.95 and $3.95.

Fourth Floor, South.

DRAINAGE BOARD 'MINSTREL SHOW' CALLED TO HALT

Trustee Carr Puts End to "Exposures" of Clark and Sergel.

The tragedy entitled "Your Evil Days Ahead," billed to be presented at the meeting of the trustees of the drainage board yesterday, with Trustee Wallace G. Clark and President Charles H. Sergel taking turns at play, was the role of "barer" wound up in a comedy.

Trustee Patrick J. Carr played the part of the proverbial black cat up stage and ruined the efforts of the tragedians.

After Sergel and Clark had taken turns "exposing" each other from 2 o'clock until about ten minutes after 1 o'clock to his feet.

"Say, Mr. President," he remarked, "this is more like a minstrel show than a meeting of sane, sensible business men. There's been a lot of charges handed back and forth, yet nothing has been brought out here that holds the attention of any sensible person a moment. It's boys' play. If you and Mr. Clark have a fight on, why don't you thrash it out in your own yard instead of bringing it in here?"

Settle It in Your Yard.

"Why don't you go after Clark in his own yard?"

"I will when he comes up for election again," said President Sergel.

"There's the answer to the whole thing," said Carr, "politics. You two are a political fight on. Well, you'd better settle it in your own yard at the proper time and quit this ballyragging that's making the board meetings a joke. If there's any more business, we stop this and adjourn."

The motion to adjourn was carried and what was heralded as a "sensational" meeting broke up in a roar of laughter.

Hostilities started when the message of President Sergel was given the board. He rehearsed his objections to the preamble of the resolution, passed at the last meeting, ordering an investigation of the district.

Asks General Inquiry.

Then he went on to urge a general investigation not only of the trustees new in office, but of all who had held office in recent years, and charged the violations of the trustees to the purchase of land, supplies, to the valuation of leases, with contractors, and the like, he invited investigation. He also charged "one trustee" with dodging his taxes.

He closed his message with the plea of public efficiency for investigation. Trustee Willis O. Nance moved to have the motion referred. Clark got to his feet with an amendment that the investigators be instructed to give the president's charges an immediate right of reply over all other business.

"Liar and Cur," Says Clark.

Clark in his reply to the amendment referred to Sergel as the "willing tool of designing minds" and to Sergel and Trustee Nance as the "wrecking crew." He denounced Sergel as a "liar and unscrupulous scoundrel" and demanded Sergel's specific in his charges. He took up those in the message item by item and asked Sergel: "What about it? Be specific."

"I am not saying those things are true. I merely feel that they should be investigated," was Sergel's reply until the charge of the "trustees who dodged taxes" was reached.

Challenged by Clark to "be specific" and "back up your charges," Clark read a long document in which he declared Clark and his business associates had fought, in the court, payment of taxes, and had obtained tax exemptions. He cited as a specific case the Michigan Boulevard building, in which Clark owns stock.

Calls Clark "Tax Dodger."

He denounced Clark as a "tax dodger and tax evader" and scolded him, warning him he intended to drive him out of public life.

Clark in turn declared Sergel was trying to ruin the board, had tried to "spoil" politics, had attempted to "steal all power of appointment," and didn't even know how to use the "four man Friday wage law" (Sergel's "four man Friday wage law" was "four man Friday wage law," Sergel's secretary).

All in all, it was a lively session, with hard names flying freely until Clark broke it up, although the only charges were the "tax dodging" against Clark by Sergel and Clark's charges against Sergel "most of the time on an emotional drunk."

Nance Warns Everybody.

Trustee Nance warned everybody "to tell the public the truth, wasn't a member of the 'solid seven,' and couldn't be bluff."

Trustee William J. Healy and Harry Little announced they felt it was hard to "drag a political quarrel into the board."

A resolution approving the construction of a single leaf bascule bridge at Twelfth street for foot and horse use was passed and a report of progress on the regulation of the lake levels was filed.

TRAGEDY VICTIM Father's Blood Fails to Save Scalded Baby's Life.

Little Hu Maxwell

FATHER'S BLOOD FAILS TO SAVE SCALDED BABY

Little Hu Maxwell's Fight for Life Is Lost.

Little Hu Maxwell lost his brave fight for life yesterday.

A kindly spirit came to the white cot in the Augustana hospital, where the baby has tossed since the May night when his father, Selby F. Maxwell, gave his blood in transfusion to save the scalded little body, and ended the pain at 2 p. m. The father was there. So were many hospital nurses, and Hu smiled at them before he went to sleep.

It was two weeks ago when Hu, left in charge of Sister Alma of the Augustana nursery, was set down in a big, white bathtub to play. The nurse went away to tend to other business and Hu discovered the shiny faucets, and turned on the scalding water. His feet and legs were terribly scalded.

Father Gives Blood.

The tragedy occurred late Sunday night and authorities called his father, who lives at 533 Gunderson avenue. He rushed to the child's bedside and the doctor said he had a chance to live. For several days his father, weakened by the operation, but happy in his sacrifice, watched him mend slowly.

"He looks fine," said the father to inquirers. "His finger nails are pink now and his face isn't white any more. I don't think he is in so much pain."

Baby Suffers Relapse.

Wednesday night a doctor came from Hu's bedside to report that there was still danger from the burns. In the morning Hu seemed much worse, but not until noon did his father give up the child's life. It was 2:30 p. m. when the end came.

Another baby was born to Mrs. Maxwell shortly before the scalding of Hu. After the accident Mrs. Maxwell took her baby and another little one 2 1/2 years old and went to stay at the nursing home to near her burned child. She fainted when told of the death.

"I want the matter investigated," said Mrs. Maxwell last night. "Sister Alma should not have put the baby in the tub and left him alone."

"I put the child in the tub, as I thought it was a safe place. I did not think that it was able to turn on the water," Sister Alma explained.

A coroner's inquest will be held at 10 o'clock this morning.

HIS WIFE'S FISTIC GEOMETRY DENTS THIS TRIANGLE

Only an Umbrella Saves Day for the "Other Woman" in Clash.

For a lead there is a choice of "Hell hath no fury" credit Mr. Pope, or any of Mrs. Kipling's mention of "vampires, or perhaps "The female of the species—"

The "vampire" quotation pleased Mrs. L. C. French, 1446 Kenilworth avenue, most. So she shouted it, thus: "Vampire, you picked the right man, but the wrong wife."

Then Mrs. French smote Mrs. Alice Burns. As all the technical flatfoot reviewers are in Toledo, Broadway and Wilson avenue had to depend on impromptu referees. They quickly encircled the women.

And, my dear, if words had been weapons.

The combat, starting when the two women met at 2:30 o'clock p. m., was brief. Mrs. Burns warding off Mrs. French's blows by opening her umbrella and retreating across Broadway, "according to plan."

Some Original Theorems.

Dr. L. C. French, now living at the Edgewater Beach, supplies the non-combatant side of the isosceles triangle. Mrs. Burns having worked out some original theorems and thus blessed the French home, according to Mrs. French.

"I couldn't stand it," said Mrs. French last night. "She had taken my husband and boasted of it. When I met her I just had to slap her. Then she called for help, just like a coward. There is no better man in the world than Dr. French, but she has had his better nature anesthetized for six years. I thought if I missed her up he'd not be so fond of her."

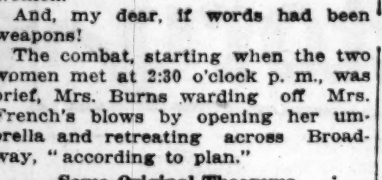

Doctor and Wife Part.

Dr. and Mrs. French agreed on separate residences in the spring of 1917, after the physician was said to have manifested interest in Mrs. Burns. The doctor went to the Edgewater Beach hotel.

Mrs. French has kept the home on Kenilworth, until this week, when she sold it.

"I was just going to the bank to sign some papers when I met the woman who had caused it, so why shouldn't I slap her?" said the victor.

There was no statement from the vanquished.

Mrs. L. C. French

TWO POLICEMEN ARRESTED UPON MURDER CHARGE

John Spencer and John Kosmala, West Hammond policemen, were arrested by deputy sheriffs yesterday on a charge of murder. The warrants were issued by Judge George Kersten sitting as an examining magistrate in the Criminal court. They grew out of a demand made by Attorney Frank Comerford and several West Hammond citizens upon State's Attorney Hoyle.

According to State's Attorney Hoyle, it is alleged by the complainants that the policemen shot and killed Marion Hemphill in a West Hammond dance hall on May 28. The policemen at the time of the shooting claimed that an orgy was in progress at the time.

Members of the machinists' union who gave the performance now claim, however, that the performance was respectable and that the policemen entered, deliberately started a free for all fight, drew their revolvers, and fired several shots, one of which killed Hemphill.

BUY YOUR COAL NOW OR SHIVER LATER, DR. GARFIELD WARNS

ARMED with the latest figures supplied him by the statistical expert, Dr. Harry A. Garfield, formerly federal fuel adminis- trator, sounded yesterday another warning to "buy coal now!"

The figures, supplied by C. E. Leisher, chief of the government's geological survey, who is working with the fuel administration, showed that for the first five months of 1919 bituminous production amounted to only a trifle over 175,000,000 tons. This compared with 222,000,000 in 1918, 225,000,000 in 1917, 208,000,000 in 1916, 159,000,000 in 1915, and 173,000,000 in 1914.

The statistician estimated that 530,000,000 tons will be needed for the year, of which 30,000,000 is of accumulated stocks from 1918.

"Assuming that there is 500,000,000 tons to be produced this year, deducting the 175,000,000 tons already produced, there yet remains 325,000,000 tons," said Dr. Garfield. "That means an average production of 16,700,000 weekly. But our present average is only 8,500,000."

"Now at the rate we are going, Mr. Leisher believes that by August or September we will be down to a week to week consumption."

Dr. Harry A. Garfield

CHEATS DEATH TO MEET WIFE FROM POLAND TODAY

When John Sowa, 2519 North Marshallfield avenue, greets his mis- s and the youngster on their arrival from Poland he'll take them right out to the Shakespeare avenue police sta- tion to meet Dr. Alex W. Johnson.

Sowa didn't meet Dr. Johnson until last night, but if he had not met him last night, Mrs. Sowa would be making a supercilious trip. Because Dr. Johnson saved his life.

Sowa, with his pal, John Hankus, 46, had gone to sleep in his lodging on the first floor at the Marshallfield avenue house.

At night, when Albert Janek, the landlord, reached home, his wife remarked she had not seen the two lodgers go to work at the Deering Harvester company plant. She thought, too, she smelled gas.

So Janek opened the door. The gas was explained by the party opened the kitchen range. Hankus and Sowa had been breathing gas fumes for twenty-four hours. Hankus was dead.

It was fortunate for Sowa—and the misadventure that Dr. Johnson rode the ambulance that hastened with the pulmotor. Though others declared both men lifeless, a mirror which Dr. Johnson placed close to Sowa's lips showed just a trace of moisture. So for two hours the doctor competed with death. He won.

But throughout the struggle for Sowa's life there was the grief of Lettie Chetsumski, 2719 Seward street, to quiet Sowa's niece, she cried for the wife he wouldn't meet, the baby who wouldn't be born, Sowa's loss in sending the tickets.

"I'll meet them," said Sowa suddenly as he was revived. The startled girl ran home.

TWINS, JUST ALIKE, TRICK 'CAMERA EYE' BEFUDDLE SLEUTHS

ASYMPHONY in brown—male- tripped blithely east in Ran- dolph, near La Salle street, yes- terday afternoon.

"This fellow in brown is—" declared Serg. Gorman to Serg. McGuire, who stood with him on the corner.

"He certainly is or I'm—" agreed McGuire as they walked up and stopped the man.

"How'd you get out, young fellow?"

"What's your name?"

"Your name is Kelly and—"

"Yes, but—"

"And we just looked you up and—"

"Come along, young fellow."

"What's the matter with you, see, because stock exchanges do not permit transactions in voting trust certificates."

"I am informed by brokers, however, that when the mob visited the Andrews office, and half the salesmen resigned in fear of their lives, Dictograph common fell very low—to $4 and $4.50 a share. I attempted to get a quote from Collins & Co., respectable Chicago brokers on the day of Hank's arrest, but I was told that they didn't know what the stock was selling for—that it was virtually off the market."

$12 Quotation Claimed.

In any event Mr. Hand represented to the purchase with a complaint to me that the quotation 'nominally is from $12 to $14'—whatever that may mean. He will have a chance to explain in court, as well as to make clear why he was not familiar with what Andrews & Co.'s New York office declares 'for weeks' has been the price."

Assistant United States District Attorney John R. Boddie, whom Clyné assigned to take charge of the federal investigation, said sufficient evidence had been uncovered to merit a searching scrutiny of all Andrews & Co.'s operations.

"Several who have communicated with me by mail and telephone," he said, "tell of being induced to buy Grant and Pell motor companies' stock by other Andrews promotions, after which they were persuaded to juggle their purchases until nothing at all—not even title to their stock or voting trust certificates—remained. Many were left hundreds of dollars in debt to the brokerage firm, despite its glowing promises of dividends."

"I have turned over to the post-office inspector the names of numerous cases to be investigated. It is apparent, however, that Andrews & Co. could not have transacted business for a day without the use of the mails."

A. B. Allen, president of the Securities Realization company in the First National Bank building, promised to place before Mr. Boddie today fresh evidence in the $14,000,000 motor truck case.

John R. Boddie

POSTAL AGENTS LOOK INTO AFFAIR OF $40,000,000

Trace Andrews Company Stock Deals; Firm Denies Wrong.

The postoffice inspector's bureau began investigation yesterday of the $40,000,000 stock activities of Andrews & Co., supplementing inquiries launched earlier in the week by United States District Attorney Clyné and Attorney General Brundage.

Assistant Postoffice Inspector F. N. Davis was assigned to trace alleged misuse of the mails in the promotion of the default $14,000,000 Smith Motor Truck corporation and other Andrews & Co. enterprises.

Coincidentally, the firm which, according to Assistant Attorney General Raymond S. Pruitt, sold $4,400,000 worth of motor truck stock to the public, while it contracted to pay not more than $380,000 into the industry treasury, sent telegrams of protest to a dozen or more newspapers, which have printed the steps taken by federal and state officials against it.

Firm Claims License.

The telegram begins: "Our Chicago office can furnish you photographic copies of license issued by Illinois secretary of state and copy of cancelled check in payment of same dated two weeks ago."

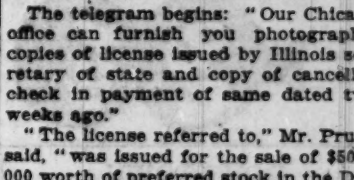

"The license referred to," Mr. Pruitt said, "was issued for the sale of $500,000 worth of preferred stock in the Dictograph Products corporation. I raised the office of the promotion firm at 108 South La Salle street and arrested E. J. Hand, one of its managers, last Monday, because Hand sold ten shares of common stock after the concern had been warned it was violating the blue sky law and had promised to confine its activity to the preferred securities. The common stock, of which $1,500,000 is to be issued, was obtained by Andrews & Co., as a bonus for the sale of the preferred."

Dictograph Prices.

The Andrews & Co. wire continues: "Your statement that Dictograph can be purchased in New York at five or six (dollars) under ten (dollars a share, its par) is untrue, as you can determine by asking any reputable broker with New York wire connections. The market is and has been for weeks nine (dollars) bid, offered at ten."

"It is true," said Mr. Pruitt, "there has been virtually no trading in Dictograph common since Philadelphia investors discovered one morning a few weeks ago that Andrews & Co. had been selling them voting trust certificates instead of Dictograph common, the firm's office. But whenever there is any trading, Archie M. Andrews, the concern's millionaire president, and his dummies carry it on. The ordinary investor can't tell the difference, because stock exchanges do not permit transactions in voting trust certificates."

"I am informed by brokers, however, that when the mob visited the Andrews office, and half the salesmen resigned in fear of their lives, Dictograph common fell very low—to $4 and $4.50 a share. I attempted to get a quote from Collins & Co., respectable Chicago brokers on the day of Hank's arrest, but I was told that they didn't know what the stock was selling for—that it was virtually off the market."

AVIATOR, HELD FOR SPEEDING, TALKS WAY OUT

The "Judge-I-am-so-used-to-speed" alibi isn't so threadbare when offered by an aviator. Judge Stekl agreed to that yesterday by accepting the plea from Lieut. R. P. Applegate, Great Lakes flyer, who was arraigned for speeding.

Wednesday Judge Stekl will let Lieut. Applegate take him on a sky-lark.

"I can't sit still," Lieut. Applegate complained to the court. "Why, I want you to fly with me, judge, and you understand." So the judge accepted, though Assistant State's Attorney James Dooley entered a general demurrer to the same invitation.

"I can't even stay in one place long enough to get married," said the flyer when questioned by Dooley.

FISHERMEN ON ATLANTIC COAST THREATEN STRIKE

New York, June 5.—(Special.)—Fish- less Friday in New York is a prospect. The unions of fishermen along the Atlantic coast from Barnegat to Portland have threatened to strike unless the smack owners give the men a raise of $3 per 1,000 pounds catch. The fishermen's existing wage is $4 per month and $7 per 1,000 pounds. The demand had been up before the war, labor board, but no action was taken.

PATIENT FLEES FROM HOSPITAL; DOES MARATHON

Louie Grimm tossed restlessly on his cot in the West Suburban hospital. It was after midnight; he could see white figures flitting along the walls.

"A marathon race," he thought. "And there's old Sid Hatch in the lead."

He couldn't sleep—the marathon race was on his mind. Suddenly he leaped out of bed.

"Those birds can't run any faster than I can," he decided, and hopped on the fire escape and crept stealthily down two floors.

"I'll beat 'em even with pneumonia," he yelled as he started hot foot down the street.

He was all set for a last lap when some one pounced on him—not more a thief, but a nurse and internist. They marched him back to his room and tucked him comfortably in bed.

U. S. to Blast Rock Section of the Calumet River

Maj. Gen. W. M. Black, chief of United States engineers, Washington, D. C., has written to Maj. H. W. Lee, secretary Calumet Manufacturers' as- sociation, that, in answer to the as- sociation's request, the United States engineer's office at Chicago "has been authorized to take the necessary steps to provide a depth in the rock section of the Calumet river, which will make it safe for both capable of navigating the balance of the improved channel."

GRANT PARK FISHERMEN SEIZED BY GAME WARDEN

Fishermen, beware, or the game war- den'll get you. Five men were arrested by Deputy Game Warden R. W. Schulze yesterday in Grant park. Ac- cording to the police there are certain places in Chicago which are not open to fishermen except at specified times.

Modify Passport Rules for All but Enemy Aliens

Harry R. Landis, immigration in- spector at Chicago, announced a change in the rules for passports for aliens from neutral, allied, and co- belligerent countries. Heretofore it was necessary for persons of these all as enemy countries to fill out and attest to a four page form in applying for passports. According to the new ruling this is only necessary for alien enemies. Others can make application in person and save the trouble and ex- pense of filling out the old forms.

Senator Aids Man Who Prefers Wife to $100,000

There was all the tender sentiment of "Jo Anderson my Joe, John," in a simple passport that reached Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Robertson of Highland Park yesterday. Robertson was former mayor there, and learned early in the winter that he had inherited $100,000 from the estate of a brother in Scotland.

Applications for a passport were approved for Robertson. But he would not go. The passport would not let his wife accompany him.

Finally Senator Medill McCormick persuaded the state department and the passport, approved, too, by the British government, will allow the devoted couple to sail from Montreal June 21.

JULY CORN UP OTHER FUTURES SHOW WEAKNESS

Local Traders Bearish, but Market Takes Turn.

BY CHARLES D. MICHAELS.
Strength in July corn and weakness in distant futures was a feature of the market yesterday, cash houses and shorts taking the July, and it gained 1/4¢ while distant months were off 1/4¢ to 1/2¢. Oats lost 1/4¢ to 1/2¢ despite fair buying of July by cash houses. Crop reports and weather conditions were more favorable and the general trade not heavy in Chicago.

Corn in the southwest closed 1/4¢ higher on July and 1/4¢ to 1/2¢ lower than the latter on December at Kansas City. Oats there were 1/4¢ to 1/2¢ lower. Rye futures there 1/4¢ to 1/2¢ lower.

July Corn Strengthened.
Local traders were generally bearish on corn and sold freely early, but the market turned around toward the last, as there was persistent buying of July in small lots by a strong commission house with important cash connections. This absorbed the surplus and a rally of 1/4¢ from the low point followed with the close at 17.00, or a fraction above the previous day's finish. Deferred futures followed, but were slightly lower at the last with September 16.11 and December 16.14.

Primary receipts in four days have been 2,385,000 bu., or 2,800,000 bu. in excess of the previous week, and compare with 2,140,000 bu. last year. Shipments have been 1,100,000 bu., or 600,000 less than last year. For the day local arrivals were 255 cars, with sample values 3¢ higher to 1¢ lower, while showing the most strength. Shipping sales, 10,000 bu.

Oats Weakened at Last.
Oats showed stubborn resistance to selling pressure early and held within a range of 1/4¢ to 1/2¢, but turned weak in the last few minutes of trading and closed at the low point to 1/4¢ above, with July at 16.14, September at 16.14, and December at 16.14.

Seaboard exporters were after cash grain and bought 175,000 bu. in the west, local handlers making sales of standards on the basis of 10¢ over July track New York. Export sales 150,000 bu. were reported from New York. Sentiment, however, has become very bearish, due to the excellent weather and crop reports, and the export demand lost its influence toward the last.

Domestic call was slow, with sales of 15,000 bu. Sample values were unchanged, with receipts 163 cars. Primary receipts in four days have been 2,701,000 bu., against 2,500,000 bu. the previous week, and 2,320,000 bu. last year. Shipments aggregated 1,911,000 bu., against 1,473,000 bu. last year.

Northwest Sells Rye.
Rye futures were weak and 1/2¢ to 1/4¢ lower on selling by houses with northwestern connections. There was 50,000 bu. sold to the seaboard from the northwest. Crop reports from Minnesota and Wisconsin were less favorable, the grain heading short and thin. The only sale on spot at Chicago was a part car of No. 2 at 14.15, with full cars nominally 1¢ under the July. Receipts, 4 cars. Minneapolis 1¢ lower and Milwaukee 1/2¢ lower. Northwestern receipts, 43 cars.

Decreased acreage of barley, especially in Minnesota and Wisconsin, had no effect on the market. The northwest sold futures freely here and they closed lower. Export sales 150,000 bu. were reported from New York. Sentiment, however, has become very bearish, due to the excellent weather and crop reports, and the export demand lost its influence toward the last.

Shorts Buy July Lard.
Shorts were the best buyers of July lard, advancing prices 4¢ from the inside, with the close at the top at 42.15. September was not taken as freely and gained only 1/4¢. Some claimed that the buying of July was against cash sales, but those in a position to know said it was shorts. The big decrease in lard stocks in the west was mainly in other than contract lard. Buying of July and selling of September widened the spread from 7¢ to 11.17¢. Buying of July lard and selling of September widened the spread from 5.10 to 5.25¢, the latter at the close. Ribs and pork were moderately traded in, ribs gaining 1/4¢ to 1/2¢ and pork 1/4¢ to 1/2¢ lower to 1/4¢ higher. Shipments of cured meats were 5,000,000 lbs. and lard 1,500,000 lbs., compared with 3,771,000 lbs. the meats and 897,000 lbs. the lard last year. Hogs were lower and created an uneasy feeling in some quarters. Prices follow:

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

A change in sentiment in corn is noticeable in quarters where nothing but bullish ideas have prevailed for months. This is due in the main to the break in cattle prices and to Hoover's statement cabled from Paris regarding food supplies. They think they see a break coming and want to be prepared. At the same time this element is bullish, arguing that as prices did not break with the big movement none should be expected, as it had dropped off here the last few days. The primary arrivals, however, are much larger than a week ago and last year. They believe that there will be a demand from the industries for all that comes. A strong point made is the relatively high price paid the interior for corn to arrive by outside markets, which usually involves values of cash and futures here. As one house put it, the strength is the fact that old supplies are nearing the end and the new crop is barely planted. Another says unless something else develops to start buying lower prices are to be expected.

The only export business reported in cash yesterday was 175,000 bu. to the seaboard. Considerable July was picked up here by cash houses. New York bid 95¢ over July with sellers at 94¢. Farmers are marketing oats fairly in Iowa and by outside markets, which usually involves values of cash and futures here. With nearly 60,000 hogs in the pens, buyers experienced little difficulty in lowering prices. Trade finished decidedly weak, with late business largely at 20¢ to 25¢ decline and 16,000 left in the pens for today's market. Shipping orders were smaller and speculators purchased more indifferently, giving packers all the advantage. An early top of 20.45 was at least 15¢ above the close on best kinds.

The day's average price of hogs at 19.15, besides being 15¢ lower than Wednesday and 10¢ lower than previous Thursday, was second lowest in two months. Traders are expecting a further break in values before the close of the week. This week's receipts promise to be about 20,000, or the largest since last February.

Combined receipts of hogs at the eleven markets totaled 133,000, being 33,000 more than previous Thursday and 48,000 more than a year ago. The first four days of this week eleven markets received 570,000, being 270,000 more than arrived corresponding period in 1918, when arrivals were unusually small owing to a big break in prices the previous week.

Cattle Trade Improves.
A better undertone prevailed in the cattle market Thursday; more moderate receipts and an improved call resulted in an active market at steady to strong prices. While bulk of sales were about steady, the market appeared quite satisfactory. It was the first day in a long time that fresh declines were not put into force. Some traders are of the opinion that the decline has been checked for the present, and as soon as retail prices are adjusted to conform with the live cattle break the fresh demand for beef will improve and help the general situation.

No prime steers were offered, best cattle on hand sold at 15.75 and bulk went around 12.50 to 14.00. Cows and calves sold largely around 8.25 to 11.50. Calf prices were 25¢ higher, best went at 11.00, and bulk around 12.50 to 15.75. Stocker and feeder prices were about steady, values undergoing adjustment to get in line with killing steers.

Sheep Trade Weakens.
Sheep trade was uneven; good to choice grades of offerings sold strong to 15¢ higher, while common grades were weak to 25¢ lower. Best short lambs sold at 15.00, 10¢ above the previous day. Spring lambs went at 14.50, best prime grades are quotable up to 18.00 to 19.25. There has been a general widening of the range between common and choice lambs this week. The receipts are carrying a large proportion of choice offerings which buyers are taking with action while they are discriminating against the common grades. The southern crop is moving freely, which is also having its influence on the general market.

War Service Resumed—Two Deliveries a Day

MARSHALL FIELD &amp; COMPANY

Women's Summer Blouses

A GENEROUS supply of pretty Blouses is a vital need when it comes to the long, hot days of Summer. And as pretty Blouses are not necessarily costly affairs, a generous supply is not at all prohibitive. Here are but two of the many, many reasonably priced Blouses, we have to offer.

That at the left is a fine ecru tinted net, with crocheted buttons, and effective edging of fine pattern lace. Attractively priced at $8.

Sketched at the right is a dainty Blouse of white Crepe Georgette daintily combined with cream tinted pattern lace. It is $6.

Women's Blouses, Sixth Floor, Middle, State.

Here Is Every Woman's Opportunity to Buy Corsets for Summer Wear at Savings of an Exceptional Kind

THE Corset Section has planned—right at the beginning of the Summer season—to give its patrons some of the biggest savings in years. This is an event unprecedented in the Section's history and is certain to attract immediate response.

The opportunity for saving appreciably will be best understood by women who have been wearing these Models regularly. Any one who is planning to buy New Corsets for the next three months—whether for sports, dancing, street or travel wear, for Summer vacation uses or a place in a trousseau—will wish to share in these values.

There are two groups: that containing eleven of our most popular models, "Roslyn," "Luise" and "Elite," which are greatly lowered in price; and the second group which comprises hundreds of new Corsets, specially bought and priced at concessions for this event.

Three of the specially priced Models are illustrated in the panel at the top.

Brassieres—So Necessary with Sheer Summer Clothes—Specially Priced in Connection with This Selling 95c—$1.95—$2.50

Three Specially Purchased Styles—Low-Priced

At the Left—Specially purchased—cotton broche, with elastic at the sides and back; long skirted, with short boning. Special, $2. At the Center—Specially purchased—"Luise" Corset with inserts at the top and bottom. Made of a fabric far superior to those usually offered at this price. $3.50. At the Right—Specially purchased—"Elite" Corset with elastic inserts each side of the low waist line. The skirt is daintily long. Specially priced at $5.50.

There will be much extra Floor Space and additional salespeople to take care of the unusual number of patrons this Selling is certain to attract.

Fifth Floor, South Room, State.

Footwear for Children's Summer Comfort

ROMPING, jumping and prancing through the hot Summer days require Footwear that is essentially comfortable, well fitting and serviceable. Made to our specifications, this Footwear is representative of the highest in the shoemaker's art, and the values are exceptional. Child's white buck Shoes, lace or button, sizes 4 to 8; hand turned sole; smart, comfortable and always in good taste, $4.50.

White Canvas Oxfords, 1½ to 2, $4.

White Canvas Ankle-tie Slippers; turned soles, 4 to 8, $2.75; 8½ to 11, priced at $2.90.

Fourth Floor, South, State.

Seeing with Childhood's Eyes

IN this Store it is not assumed that toys are but a holiday diversion for children. To youth every day is a season for toys.

Our Toy Section is an all-the-year-round fairyland, containing everything the dream-life of childhood—from babyhood to youth—may crave.

Constructive Merchandising has been a factor in influencing American manufacturers to produce toys of the very highest quality. Many of the toys in our Store today show our own constructive ideas.

The immense space continuously devoted to the playtime necessities of youth is eloquent expression of our cognizance of the importance of toys to childhood existence.

Special—Hudson Bay Blue Fox Scarfs—Just Arrived

THESE luxurious and beautiful Furs have much favor with smart women. Especially for Summer travel and motor trips such a Scarf is welcome.

These have just been purchased, are of a quality we can recommend, and are the single skin style, charmingly lined. Priced at $75 and $90.

Women's and Misses' Furs, Sixth Floor, Wabash Avenue.

Satin or English Print—

The Appeal Is the Separate Skirt

WOMEN'S Separate Skirts for morning and for afternoon wear and for dress up occasions are indeed extremely modish.

Here's a quaint affair—a Skirt patterned with small posies on an old English print, with white organdie topping the pockets and a pert white organdie band across the belt. It's a Skirt that will tub! $5.75.

The Skirt at the right is a beautiful quality of shimmering white washable satin, $18.75.

Women's Skirts, Sixth Floor, South, State.

Made of Dainty Voiles for Misses—Frocks Unusually Low Priced, $15 and $16.75

THERE are many styles from which to choose and almost any color or combination of colors that you might want.

The Frocks at the left is a checked voile with sheer white organdie collar and vestee, tucked and embroidered, $15.

The Frocks at the right is a unique little patterned voile, with white organdie fichu and white organdie as a finishing touch to the pockets and sleeves. $16.75.

Misses' Frocks, Sixth Floor, North, State.

Summer Petticoats and Negligees at Attractive Prices

TWO articles paramount when it comes to the Summer wardrobe are these, and any special prices which are to be had—such as these Negligees at $5, and Silk Petticoats at $3.85—are indeed cordially greeted. Both are dainty and attractive for Summer wear.

Negligees, $5

Trim looking Negligees for warm weather are they—dotted Swiss and daintily flowered designs on colored fabrics, with ribbon tie and ruffled edges.

There are the Empire and coat models in these fabrics in four distinct styles. The Negligee at the right is dotted Swiss, the one at the left is a daintily flowered fabric, $5.

Silk Petticoats, Special, $3.85

THEY are the tub silk, double paneled, front and back kind, so suitable for wear with light frocks and suits. Three styles.

In addition, at this attractive price, there are satin-striped Habutai Petticoats in all street colorings. Cool and smart for Summer wear.

Negligees and Petticoats, Fifth Floor, South, State.

Next Week Is "Boy Scout" Week—

See the Demonstration Saturday Morning 10:30—12

A Patrol of Boy Scouts will demonstrate "First Aid," drilling, knot tying, flag signaling.

Boy Scout Room, Fourth Floor, Middle, State. Official Outfitters Boy Scouts of America.

Figured Crepe Georgette Makes

Stunning Frocks at $32.50

THE model above indicates the style and attractiveness of a special purchase of the Figured Crepe Georgette Frocks to be had at $32.50.

There are almost no two patterns or Frocks that are exactly alike. You can get both the light and the dark backgrounds. There are, also, the plain colors, some tucked and others beaded—as you prefer. All these Frocks are unusual at this price of $32.50.

Moderately Priced Frocks, Sixth Floor, Wabash.

JUVENILE FLOOR—THE FOURTH

Specials from the Juniors' Section

THE Frocks worn by the little maiden sketched above is something which makes any little girl charmingly and practically frocked.

It is a gingham of a fine imported weave, in sunshine yellow, apple blossom green, pink, blue or orchid. For ages six to sixteen.

The price is a special at $13.75 and not to be readily duplicated.

NOTE: Reduction Selling of Girls' Coats, Capes and Frocks that are somewhat soiled or broken in assortment. Fourth Floor, North, State.

Warm Weather Tips

From the Boys' Room

GET the boys into Cool-Cloth or Palm Beach Suits for Summer comfort. Here are some very serviceable Norfolk styles for ages 7 to 18 at $13.50, $15, and $16.50.

Then there are the Blouses with the roll back sport collar, white or color-striped, $11.50. (7 to 18.)

And there are the washable Knickerbockers at $2.25 and $2.50; olive and white khaki, and tan and gray Palm Beach cloth. (7 to 18.)

NOTE: Reductions in Boys' Spring Wool Suits. Fourth, Middle.
